Washington Peace Parley Suggested

LONDON, PARIS AND U. S. STUDY CURB ON JAPAN

Consider Nine-Power Conference Following Condemnation of Nippon by U. S.

ITALIAN SHOWDOWN NEAR

London and Paris Demand Reply to Note Calling for Withdrawal of Troops.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 7—Britain and France began today a preliminary exchange of views with the United States on convocation of a nine-power conference in an effort to curb the Sino-Japanese war, with the possibility that the conference will be held in Washington.

Officials would not say whether a flat request had been made to hold the nine-power parley in Washington, but they did point to suitability for the nine-power treaty, guaranteeing territorial integrity of China, was negotiated at the American capital.

There were indications that Washington had been asked whether, in its opinion, the nine power parley should be held there.

Approves League Action

The United States state department's formal condemnation of Japan was regarded as virtual acceptance of the League of Nations nine-power Washington pact to consider ways of making good its invitation to signatories of the their guarantee of the territorial integrity of China.

"The prevailing sentiment of the Japanese government is that there is no reason for the (United States) action," a high official said. "We completely fail to understand the American action which is bound to make a very bad impression on the Japanese public."

The Domei (Japanese) News agency quoted an unnamed foreign office official as saying "Japan is confident she will prove equal to the contingency" even in the face of possible concrete measures the powers might take. This same source said Japan, a signatory of the nine-power treaty, would not participate in a nine-power conference, if one were held.

"No matter what decision such a conference should take," Domei quoted a foreign office official, "whether moral pressure, concrete measures or material sanctions against Japan, the empire's fundamental policy will remain unchanged."

President Roosevelt's call Tuesday for concerted action against aggressor nations and his state department's declaration yesterday against Japan were construed as a partial shouldering of the general trouble, permitting Britain with France, to concentrate on a showdown in the European crisis that grew out of the 14-months-old civil war in Spain.

Their ominously unclarified threat of "decisive action" was held over Italy unless Premier Mussolini replied quickly to the French invitation to confer with France and Britain on withdrawal of foreign soldiers from the Spanish peninsula.

Want Early Reply

A joint communique, issued after yesterday's long conference between foreign secretary Anthony Eden and French Ambassador Charles Corbin, said:

"The two governments have noted with the desirability of receiving an early reply from ...

... sources said at the ... France and Britain ... effect, giving Rome 24 ... respond to the invita-

... was a growing conviction ... authoritative quarters

U. S. TO TAKE PART

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—Secretary Hull indicated today this government's firm intention of participating in a nine-power conference to consider the far eastern conflict.

The secretary of state said at his press conference that no invitation to such a parley thus far has been received, but that naturally, as one of the signatories to the nine power treaty guaranteeing China's territorial sovereignty, he "presumed" this government would accept it and when the bid is received.

Dahlia Grown By Marion Man Reaches Height of 11½ Feet

Unusual Plant Attracts Many Visitors to Home of Philip J. Haberman, Veteran Flower Gardener.

A DAHLIA that has reached the unusual height of 11½ feet is attracting many visitors to the garden of Philip J. Haberman at 493 North State street.

Its height far exceeds any dahlias Mr. Haberman has raised in the pursuit of his hobby of flower gardening in the last 20 years, and he said it is the tallest one he ever has seen.

The plant possesses another distinction—it is virtually the only one in Mr. Haberman's garden of 35 dahlia plants that he can not give the botanical name for. When asked the name of it, Mr. Haberman paused, then answered, "Well, I call it the Margaret E., but that isn't its name. It was more or less of a stray when I planted it and I have no record of the name."

Further questioning brought out that Mr. Haberman named it for a daughter.

The bulb was planted last May 29 and promptly began to set the pace for others in Mr. Haberman's garden. It is located near the center of the group of plants and towers well above them.

Its yellow bloom is exactly 11 feet above the ground level, and some of its foliage extends six inches above the flower.

The dahlia had no special care—"I didn't even water it between rains," Mr. Haberman said. He did, however, give the flowers adequate supporting frames and kept the rows neatly cultivated.

Mr. Haberman, 70, is watchman at the Greenwood street crossing of the Big Four railroad. He formerly worked at the Susquehanna Silk Mill.

COMBINE PUTS OUT TRAFFIC LIGHTS HERE

Traffic lights at two uptown intersections were temporarily out of commission for about an hour yesterday afternoon when a harvester combine traveling north on Main street struck and broke off an electric line at the first alley south of Center street. The disruption of the power service affected traffic lights at Main and Center and at State and Center street intersections.

The harvester combine was being hauled by a tractor driven by Robert Danner of the Hillman-Ford road, an employe of the Dutt Implement Co., according to a police report. Immediately after the accident electricians were notified and the power service was restored.

MARION YOUTH HELD IN PROBE OF HACK DEATH

Marion, Morrow County Officials Reopen Investigation of Widow's Slaying.

LIE DETECTOR IS USED

Suspect in Jail Here Had Been Wanted for Questioning Ever Since Murder.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, O., Oct. 7—Morrow and Marion county authorities have reopened investigation of the mysterious murder of Mrs. Caroline Hack, 76-year-old widow, on April 18 and are holding a Marion youth in custody as a possible suspect, Prosecuting Attorney Nelson Campbell disclosed today.

A lie detector was used during lengthy questioning of the youth at the London prison farm Tuesday night, the prosecutor said, and a report from the state bureau of criminal investigaion and identification on the results of the test are being awaited, along with further information Marion police hope to obtain.

Marion police provided a tip shortly after the slaying that led to the new line of investigation, but nothing could be done until the last few days because the young man wanted could not be located, the prosecutor said.

Missing for a Time

The suspect, a distant relative of the slain woman, was reported to have disappeared shortly before the time of the Hack murder, and his whereabouts could not be determined. It was understood he was badly in need of money to satisfy some questionable checks which were the besis of a warrant for his arrest, held by Marion police.

The fact that Mrs. Hack was reputed to have a sizeable amount of money at her home and the youth's need for funds to satisfy the checks in order to dispose of the charge awaiting him in Marion were coupled to provide the first tip on this angle of the investigation shortly after Mrs. Hack was slain.

The youth was taken into custody in Marion several days ago and Morrow county authorities were notified immediately in or-

Medina Woman Elected State K. D. President

Mrs. Floyd Bennett Chosen Head and Mrs. French Crow a Trustee as Convention Closes.

Mrs. Floyd Bennett of Medina was chosen to head the Ohio branch of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons, Inc., at the closing session of the forty-fourth annual convention of the organization, today, at the First Presbyterian church. Reelected to serve her third term as first vice president and Bible study chairman was Miss Zona L. Scott of Cleveland. Mrs. F. A. Rice of Cleveland was reelected second vice president and junior chairman for the second term. Miss Maude Tindall of Fremont was elected secretary.

Mrs. French Crow of Marion, retiring president, was elected trustee and Mrs. Charles A. Rose of Toledo was appointed to the board of trustees to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. A. A. Gottschall of Toledo, who retired on account of ill health.

Mrs. Bennett, Miss Scott, Mrs. Rice and Miss Tindall will serve for a period of two years. Mrs. Fred Vollmer of Bucyrus is treasurer.

Shortly after 2 this afternoon an invitation was accepted to hold the 1938 convention in Newark, O. The invitation was extended by officers of the Newark city union.

Completion of Business

An address by Mrs. Henry S. Eley of Suffok, Va., president of the International King's Daughters, last night, election of officers this morning, and a memorial service this afternoon for members whose deaths occurred in the last year brought the three-day convention to a close.

This morning's session was devoted to a discussion of Rock Lodge Inn on Catawba Island, a project sponsored by the state branch as a vacation home for working girls and women. The Inn, which has been leased as a home for underprivileged children for the last two years, will be taken over this year by the King's Daughters of the state, it was decided in this morning's session. Miss Zona L. Scott, vice president, presided for the business session today.

Mrs. Robert Morgan of Bellefontaine, memory pearl chairman, and Miss Maude Tindall of Fremont presided for the impressive memorial service. As the names of deceased members were read white flowers were placed in a wreath. Mrs. S. L. Anderson of Marion, sang "The Perfect Day," during the service.

Mrs. Eley presided for the installation of the newly-elected officers and the consecration service which closed the convention.

Succeeds Mrs. Crow

Mrs. Bennett succeeds Mrs. French Crow of Marion as head of the state branch. The retiring president, who has been affiliated with King's Daughters work for 35 years, is a member of the Whatsoever circle of Marion and served as head of that group for four years. She was City union chairman for two years and her state work included the office of second vice president for two years. In this position she also was head of the junior circles of the state and under her leadership 12 new circles were added to the Ohio roster. She was named president of the state organization at Cranville in 1936. As head of the state group she was a member of the Central council which is composed of international officers and

Church Denies Plea of Ousted Galion Bishop

Dr. Brown's Request for Reinstatement Again Turned Down.

Bishop William Montgomery Brown of Galion, who was deposed as a bishop by the Protestant Episcopal church after expressing doubt that Christ ever existed, appealed unsuccessfully again yesterday for reinstatement at the fifty-second triennial convention of the church in Cincinnati, The Associated Press reported today.

The Rt. Rev. James DeWolfe Perry, presiding bishop of the house of bishops, ruled that the case of the 82-year-old Galion bishop was "res judicata" and said "there is nothing further we can do about it."

Bishop Brown's appeal was submitted in a letter. He was consecrated as bishop coadjutor of Arkansas in 1898 and was deposed by the house of bishops at New Orleans in 1925 on charges of heresy after publication of his book "Communism and Christianity."

A passage in the book read: "Communism is the one comprehensive term which is synonomous at once of inorality, religion and Christianity. Orthodox Christians say that Christ founded their churches. I doubt that He ever lived. If He did live and could come back to earth in the Twentieth century, He would not, if He could, and could not if He would, be a member of any church today."

Liberalism Sought

As convention session continued today, leaders of the church looked to a broad liberalism today to hold it firmly together in the face of controversy over social and economic ills. One prominent churchman said the church had weathered doctrinal differences "much worse" than the dispute precipitated by teachings of the Church League for Industrial Democracy.

The liberalism is so broad as to permit differences over doctrine which have rent other denominations, the spokesman asserted.

Emphasizing the freedom of belief, he said some Episcopal clergymen refused to believe the Biblical stories of miracles such as Christ walking on the water, while others disavow many parts of the Bible which are the inspired word of God.

Returning to the dissension about how far churchmen should go in attempting to change the social order, the spokesman, a doctor of divinity, remarked:

"Once in a while somebody in the church starts throwing bricks, but it always ends in peace."

Meanwhile, the league, despite efforts of some laymen's organizations to bar it from the convention program, held its first meeting, with Norman Thomas, Socialist leader and former Marion man, as principal speaker.

Aim at Workers

In its campaign to bring the church closer to the working man, the league numbers among its members several leading churchmen, such as Rt. Rev. Edward L. Parsons, bishop of California, who preached the opening convention sermon, and Rt. Rev. Benjamin Brewster, bishop of Maine.

The house of deputies reelected the Rev. Zebarney Phillips of Washington, D. C., president for his fourth term. The Rt. Rev. Joseph M. Francis, bishop of Indianapolis, was reelected vice

A.F.L. ASKS BOYCOTT ON JAPANESE GOODS

Claims Americans Do Not Want To Help Nippon in War Against China.

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Oct. 7.—American Federation of Labor leaders called for a boycott today on goods made in Japan.

"I am confident the American people will not want to assist Japan indirectly in its campaign of violent aggression and oppression of Chinese resistance by purchasing Japanese products in this country," said Matthew Woll, a federation vice president.

"I'm not only in favor of a boycott but I'm for putting up who buys Japanese goods in jail for 30 days," said Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union and C. I. O. secretary.

I. M. Ornburn, secretary of the federation's union label department, said "we buy Japanese goods and it is our duty to

King's Daughters Meeting Held in Colorful Setting

The first Presbyterian church where the forty-fourth annual convention of the Ohio Branch of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons, Inc., is being held, never looked lovelier. Palms form a background for the baskets of colorful fall flowers on the altar in the main auditorium and occupying a place of prominence is the state banner of the order in purple and silver. Throughout the parlors and in the dining room the flowers are repeated in a profusion of colors and variety. Decorations are in charge of a committee composed of Miss Mabel Wheatley, chairman, Mrs. Roy Prichard, Mrs. O. M. Young and Mrs. Carl Campbell.

Mrs. French Crow, who presided for the convention, is serving her second year as head of the state organization.

Mrs. Edgar Holycross of Marysville, who has served the state organization as secretary for the last six years, is taking on a new duty, that of deputy to her husband, now treasurer of Union county.

Adding a pleasant touch of color and atmosphere to the convention sessions are Mrs. Cleon Williams and Mrs. James Lytle, pages, as they dash hither and yon with messages and greetings.

Greetings were read this morning from state branches in California and Michigan, and past state officers and several international officers.

Greetings were sent from the state group to Mrs. Laura Goodhue, international secretary, now in New York City, a past president of the Ohio branch and also to Mrs. Sara F. Gurie of Columbus, a past president.

New Trends Found in Home Furnishings

There's nothing like a change of season to start housewives changing furniture and furnishings.

The winter of 1937 and '38 will see no drastic innovations in furniture and furnishings, according to a Marion buyer of years of experience.

Furniture manufacturers have found styles which have met with favor in the past season and are willing to continue the modes and moods.

Dining Room Wanes

A trend which is slowly, but none the less relentlessly, creeping into the home is the passing of the dining room suite. Although it will be years before the dining room passes entirely from the American horizon, the young brides and busy hostesses of today are eliminating this expensive item from the furnishings budget and are taking up the dinette suite or better still, one merchant said, the gateleg table which is a beautiful piece of occasional furniture and can easily be brought into service for a dinner party. However, there are those in Marion who literally raise their hands in horror at the thought of entertaining without a dining room, and these hosts and hostesses will be the life-saver of the dining room suite in the next few years.

As one young Marion hostess said not so long ago: "If we have guests, they're either in the living room or kitchen. Why furnish a dining room when no one uses it?"

Maple is in vogue for furniture all over the house, according to one merchant, and there is also a demand for a variety of fancy veneers in bedroom furniture, stands, lamps—and dining room suites.

Satinwood is having a run in the bedroom suites and Hura wood, a rich, reddish brown, is popular, particularly in stands and tables.

Lines Are Smooth

The smooth, flowing lines of the modern furniture continues in high favor, and ranking closely are the Georgian period lines of Sheraton, Chippendale and Phyfe, in bedroom and dining room suites and the indispensable occasional furniture.

One merchant advised the thoughtful home maker not to overlook the Victorian trend, because Victorian pieces are at home with furniture of any of the "elegant" periods and even the modern unless the latter is the chromium, streamlined style. Warning was given against blending good Victorian with the massive oak of the Tudors and the heavy, solid style of the Rennaisance.

Warm browns and wines are being shown quite a bit in the new living room furniture on display, a change from the rust and green of the last several seasons, and decidedly comfortable shades with which to blend the new heavy drapes which come with the winter redecorating. Mohairs, tapestries and the finer velours continue favorites in upholstering.

The smart and thrifty shopper for new home furnishings will do well to visit Marion's furniture stores and drapery departments, for there will be found the newest things in rugs, lamps, pictures, drapes and furniture, and experienced men and women willing to assist the shopper with details of colors and materials.

Animal Kingdom At War Against Kenton Autoists

By The Associated Press

KENTON, O., Oct. 7—Sufferers of motorists wondered today if they were victims of an animal kingdom revolt against the machine age or merely unlucky. The evidence:

A chicken flew against George L. Carey's automobile radiator and disabled it. He had to buy a new grill.

A turkey did the same thing for Don Robinson.

A cow smashed the front end of Arthur Kingman's parked car. He bought a new headlight, fender and grill.

A calf saw its reflection in the side of Carl Richards' automobile—and had a fight with itself. Richards had to have the body straightened.

But Ira Shick was the prize winner. He left his car parked with the windows down. When he returned he found a horse eating the upholstery. A bite had been taken out of the window. Part of the door paint was gone.

'OFFICE WIFE' BLAMED IN HUSBAND MURDER

By The Associated Press

PADUCAH, Ky., Oct. 7—A love triangle involving an "office wife" was blamed today by Mrs. Gladys Bembridge Adams, 38-year-old former Sunday school teacher and choir singer, for the fatal shooting of her attorney husband, Ben S. Adams, in his law office here July 15 1936.

The frail 70-pound widow, testifying from a cot, told a jury in McCracken circuit court late yesterday she shot her husband in self-defense. Both were grappling for a pistol in an open desk drawer, she said, adding:

"I knew he was going to kill me."

WASHINGTON PEACE PARLEY SUGGESTED

that a stern display of Anglo-French "force" might be the only way to get Il Duce's blackshirt legions out of Spain.

Today informed persons were inclined to discount the suggestion that a 24-hour ultimatum had been given to Mussolini. They said the 24 hours was mentioned merely as an approximate period of grace and not a definite time limit.

The League of Nations assembly, throwing its "moral support" to China in the far eastern crisis, called last night on the nine-power treaty group to act and warned Japan there might be other measures if she did not halt the invasion.

It acted by unanimous adoption of a report of the league's Sino-Japanese advisory committee.

U. S. Brands Japs Treaty Violators

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 — The United States government branding Japan a treaty violator, ranged itself solidly alongsire the League of Nations today in its effort to stop hostilities in the far east.

Further American action appeared imminent in consequence of a formal state department pronouncement last night condemning the imperial Japanese government for its undeclared war in China.

This is expected to take the form of immediate consent to participate in a nine-power conference to consider possible new steps in the crisis.

Take Quick Action

The state department acted swiftly to give practical force to President Roosevelt's pledge of cooperation with all peace-loving nations to end what he described as the prevailing reign of international lawlessness.

Its stinging indictment of Japanese aggression was timed to coincide with similar action by the League of Nations assembly.

"In the light of the unfolding developments in the far east," the state department said, "the government of the United States has been forced to the conclusion that the action of Japan in China is inconsistent with the principles which should govern the relationships between nations and is contrary to the provisions of the nine-power treaty of Feb. 6, 1922, regarding principles and policies to be followed in matters concerning China, and to those of the Kellogg-Briand pact of Aug. 27, 1928."

Same Thing in 1932

It marked the second time in a little more than five years that the United States had resorted to this extreme in its far eastern policy. Similar action was taken in 1932 by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson when he sought to call Japan to account for its invasion of Manchuria.

Significantly, the outspoken pronouncement said this government's conclusions with respect to Japan in the present crisis are "in general accord with those of the assembly of the League of Nations."

Informed observers interpreted this to mean that Secretary Hull and his advisers already have decided to accept an anticipated invitation to participate in a conference of nine-power treaty signatories now being convoked under league auspices.

Provisions of Two Treaties Mentioned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—Here is the gist of the two treaties mentioned in the United States' condemnation of Japanese activity in China:

The Briand-Kellogg pact: Makes binding on the signers respect for the sovereignty of China and maintenance of equal commercial opportunities for all nations in China. Japan and the United States were among the signers.

An older document, the 1902 Boxer protocol, pledged signers to keep open the line of communication between Peiping and the sea.

Japanese Confer On U. S. Condemnation

TOKYO, Oct. 7 — Japanese statesmen were called into emergency session at the foreign office today immediately on receipt of news from Washington that the United States had condemned Japan's invasion of China as a violator of her treaty obligations.

No immediate reply was expected to the formal statement of the American state department, accusing Japan of violation of the nine power pact guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

The Japanese government was taken completely off guard by the American condemnation, one of the highest government officials said.

ONTARIO VOTE WON BY ANTI-C.I.O. PARTY

TORONTO, Oct. 7—(Canadian Press)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and his Liberal government were assured today of at least a 63 to 23 control of the Ontario legislature by a near record victory at the polls.

From 1,500,000 ballots cast in yesterday's general election the anti-C.I.O. executive and his following drew a support that neared their record of three years ago when they swept into power.

In the contest for 90 seats in Ontario's 20th legislature, the Liberals won 63 seats against the Conservatives' 23 and also may count on support from two Liberal-Progressives, one Independent-Liberal and another member whose political label is "United Farmers of Ontario."

Nine, Ten Year Old Boys Held in Auto Theft

Two boys, 9 and 10 years old, are under arrest today accused by police of automobile stealing, the youngest persons ever held here on that charge. They are the same West Side boys who less than three weeks ago attempted to dig their way out of the detention home when they were incarcerated in connection with a stolen bicycle.

Both admitted taking an automobile belonging to W. E. McDonald of near Galion when they were taken before Juvenile Judge Gast this morning. The 10-year-old boy was given an indeterminate sentence to the Lancaster Industrial school. His companion, because he is younger than the age group committed to the industrial school, was ordered sent to the bureau of juvenile research in Columbus.

The McDonald automobile was reported taken from Kenton avenue shortly after school was dismissed yesterday afternoon. It was found an hour later on Dennison avenue, only a few blocks from its original parking place. Police located several other boys who had identified the pair that abandoned the car.

Officers then took the pair into custody at their homes and they admitted taking the car, Police Chief Marks said. "We wanted to take a ride," was their answer to the query of why they had stolen an automobile, police said. They were held in the detention home last night and were returned there after the hearing before Judge Gast.

They probably will be committed to the institutions tomorrow, Judge Gast said. Their attempted break from the detention home was made on the afternoon of Sept. 14. They had torn a hole about a foot square in the wall of their cell when they were discovered by the superintendent, Mrs. Emma F. Bain.

2 LIQUOR OFFICIALS ACCUSED IN INQUIRY

Examiner Reports Supervisors Attempt To Settle With Payroll Padder.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7 — State Examiner Albert I. Balmert charged today two state liquor department officials had "betrayed the trust imposed in them" by attempting to settle with an alleged payroll padder for less than he had obtained illegally.

The officials charged by Balmert with betraying a trust were C. H. Burk, supervisor of stores, and J. A. Driscoll, a district supervisor. The former store manager who was charged with padding the payroll of his store was W. J. Taylor, who managed a store at Cleveland. Taylor, who was suspended, resigned Dec. 7, 1936, at the end of the suspension period.

Taylor was held to account for $740. The report said he placed George A. Collers on the payroll as a laborer at 50 cents an hour on the pretext of obtaining money to pay Collers for use of a parking lot. Collers was to receive 10 cents for each permit holder who parked in the lot while transacting business at the store, the report said.

While payroll checks totaling $1,234.50 were alleged to have been made out to Collers, the reports says Taylor cashed the checks himself.

Examiner Balmert said both Burk and Driscoll knew of the illegal payroll transaction.

Examiner Balmert also reported that an examination of another Cleveland liquor store disclosed that W. J. Phelan, a clerk, had withheld $70.70 in cash from wholesale sales. He repaid $48.29. Phelan resigned Feb. 20, 1937.

A report by Examiner Balmert on a store at Akron, as of July 8 this year, held that L. C. Bowman, store manager, was short $223.23 as a result of converting petty cash to his personal use and withholding cash received for sales and wholesale orders. He paid the entire amount, the report stated.

ROOSEVELT RESTS AND PLOTS STRATEGY

By The Associated Press

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 7 — President Roosevelt secluded himself in the quiet of his ancestral home today to rest from his transcontinental trip and give thought to momentous foreign and domestic problems.

His statement at Chicago that America "actively engages in the search for peace" was expected by officials to be his last for some time to come, although he naturally is conversant with all state department moves.

He knew in advance, for example, of the department's statement of last night formally condemning Japan as a treaty violator and going a step farther than he did at Chicago when he arraigned all aggressor nations before the world without calling names.

VITTORIO MUSSOLINI VISITING NEW YORK

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 — Vittorio Mussolini, 21-year-old son of the Italian premier, said today his sightseeing trip in America would take him to New York for a few days and that he hoped to get to Washington for a visit with President Roosevelt.

He chatted with reporters through an interpreter while his plane stopped here en route from Hollywood to New York.

He will not return to Italy, he said, for another week or 10 days.

"Hollywood is a very fine place," Mussolini said of the film colony where he went to study American production methods. "I had no trouble at any time with Hal Roach and he is still in the Italian film company so far as I know."

K. D. OFFICERS ELECTED AS CONVENTION CLOSES

presidents of the various state branches.

The members discussed activities at Maplecrest, the King's Daughters home for girls at Bucyrus, at the luncheon today. Pledges made during the convention for Maplecrest home amounted to $410, and contributions for Rock Ledge Inn totaled nearly $200. The gifts are voluntary contributions of members and circles interested in the activities of the two homes.

Members of the Marion County Federation and the W. C. T. U. were guests at the meeting last night, when Mrs. Eley in her talk echoed the high standards of the King's Daughters of the world, their aims and principles for which they stand.

Mrs. Eley's Address

Following in the footsteps of Christ and carrying out His precepts as King's Daughters, W. C. T. U. members and club women, was Mrs. Eley's challenge to the women in last night's audience, when she spoke on "The True Light."

An audience of more than 500 women which filled the main auditorium and the greater part of the gallery, heard the international president of the King's Daughters & Sons Inc., voice a plea for a "right about face" from following a false light which she said, "has brought us materialism, nationalism and militarism," to the true light which will bring peace and happiness.

The invocation was spoken by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the hostess church, and the benediction was spoken by Rev. James M. Fisher, a Presbyterian minister.

Adding to the evening's program was presentation of two numbers by the East Side Mothersingers, under the direction of Mrs. S. L. Anderson, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Fred Sinning. Costumed in Colonial dresses of lavender and white the chorus sang "Praise Ye, the Lord," by Gounod, and "Dedication" Franz.

Names Guiding Light

Using as an example the importance placed on the observance of the lights used in modern traffic, Mrs. Eley emphasized the importance of following the true and safe light in the spiritual life and in dealing with one's fellowman. "As Christians, we have a Light to follow: Jesus said, 'I am the Light of the World,'" she said.

Many of us as individuals and as a nation, have gone the wrong way, she said, and declared that the sooner we right about face and follow the true light, the sooner we will get back to individual happiness and national prosperity.

"Because we have not followed the golden rule and the true light we have not only had economic depression but strife, strikes and other miseries. "Which light have you, as King's Daughters, W. C. T. U. women and club women been following?" she asked her audience.

"We must have the light within ourselves," she said, and as leaders in King's Daughters work, she emphasized the necessity of women being worthy of the name and standing in the foreground in their work for the organization. She defined nationalism as greed, hate and envy, and asked the women to love their own country, but not to hate all other countries.

The Chief Menace

The most dangerous of all, she said, is militarism. "By that I do not mean that I am opposed to national defense, but I am opposed to going out and taking what belongs to others. We learned war, and we learned that war doesn't end war; now let us try to learn peace," she continued.

To gain an insight to present day problems and their causes she advised the reading of "I Knew Them In Prison," by Dr. Mary Bell Harris. Our lives might have been similar had we not had the advantages of home, education and spiritual guidance, she said.

"Helen Keller," Mrs. Eley said in emphasizing the need of a greater depth of Christian understanding among people and nations, "walks more truly and the more faithfully in the path of the Master than anyone I know."

She spoke briefly on the liquor traffic and the practice of smoking among women. The liquor traffic, she said, is killing more people through accidents and other channels, than wars, insanity is increasing and the percentage of death is increasing, through the use of alcohol.

Reception Held

Following the program hour there was an informal reception in the church parlors. Mrs. Crow, the honor guest Mrs. Eley and the state officers and trustees, received more than 200 guests. They stood before a background formed of gentian and white flowers banked with greenery and throughout the room were baskets of vari-colored gladioli and other fall bloom. One of the most attractive flower arrangements in the decorations was a miniature fashioned of short-stemmed garden flowers. Baskets of flowers formed the decoration for the table which was laid with a cellephane cloth in the King's Daughters colors of purple and white, and lighted with white candles.

Heads Rock Ledge Inn

Mrs. Carrie McLaughlin of Cleveland was elected president of Rock Ledge Inn chapter at the organization's semi-annual luncheon meeting yesterday. Mrs. Anna Liebing of Cleveland was chosen vice president, and Mrs. D. C. Richmond of Clyde, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Morgan of Bellefontaine, treasurer. The chapter, through its payment of dues, assists in the maintenance of Rock Ledge Inn, the vacation home for working girls and women on Catawba Island, maintained as a state project by the Ohio branch.

Plans were made for the annual summer picnic at the Inn. A memorial was conducted for Miss Bessie Blake of Gambier, a member whose death occurred during the year. A hymn written for her by her brother was read in the service, Mrs. Liebing, chairman of the chapter, presided. The chapter, which has a membership of about 200, meets twice a year, once during the state convention and again during the summer at the Inn.

The session yesterday afternoon brought to a close the reports of the officers and chairmen of the various state projects. Miss Sara Walden, matron of Maplecrest, a home for girls at Bucyrus, and a major project of the state branch, told of her work in the home and of the activities of the girls who have gone from the home into the business and professional field and also as homemakers.

The program hour opened with a group of organ numbers by Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh, organist. She played "Pilgrim Chorus" from Wagner's "Tannhauser," "Claire d' Lune," Debussy and Schubert's "Ave Marie." Completing the musical program were two solos, "Wait for Me," and "The Victor," by Robert Swisher. His accompaniments were played by Mrs. Robert Y. Smith.

Talk On Magazine

A report of the Sophie Waldron fund was read by the secretary, Mrs. Holycross, and Mrs. Eley gave a talk on the international magazine, "The Silver Cross." She pointed out as three principles of success, information, inspiration and sustained enthusiasm, and said these could be found by keeping in contact with the order's work through the magazine.

Miss Walden spoke enthusiastically about her work as head of the home, a position she has held since the spring of 1930. There are 19 girls at the home. Three are seniors in the Bucyrus High school, one is a junior, one a sophomore, two are freshmen, three are in the eighth grade, six in the seventh, and one each in the sixth, third and first grades.

She described the home as a place where characters are being developed, and the work of the King's Daughters, "If we do our work well," as the building of a better generation in the days to come. The home was opened by the state group in 1921.

REPORT 500 SLAIN IN JAP AIR ATTACK

Planes Bomb Rich Kwantung Province: Attack Railroad Centers.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Oct. 7—More than 500 Chinese civilians were reported today to have been killed by mass bombing raids of Japanese warplanes on the rich southern province of Kwantung.

The Chinese central news agency reported that eight Japanese planes, including two huge bombers, were shot down by a surprise Chinese defense of the strategic military railway linking Canton on the south coast and the Yangtze river port of Hankow.

The massed Japanese flights took to the air yesterday just as the League of Nations and the United States were condemning Japan for violation of her treaty obligations by invasion of Chinese territory.

A dozen railway centers were bombed along the route from Canton to Hankow, Chinese dispatches said, killing and wounding more than 300 non-combatants in those towns alone.

Bombs Fall on Capital

In northern Kwantung province the raiding planes were said to have caused several hundred more casualties. Twenty bombs fell on the departmental capital city of Shiuchow alone, demolishing some 30 dwellings.

While the massed flight of 36 Japanese planes followed the railroad to the north, dropping bombs on each village as they came to it, Chinese said a spirited attack by 70 Chinese planes kept the line from being more than slightly damaged.

Out of the 36 Japanese planes, Chinese said eight were shot down while the Japanese were able to take a toll of but two Chinese pursuit ships.

At Shanghai, where a desperate battle was raging through the rice paddies northwest of the city, the Japanese flagship Idzumo sent countless shells screaming over the international settlement in an effort to blast the Chinese out of stubbornly defended positions on the Chapei and North Station battle fronts.

U. S. Marines Endangered

Shells fell in deadly succession near the sector guarded by the United States marines on the northern boundary of the settlement.

The Idzumo moved four miles down the Whangpoo river to avoid knocking the tops off Shanghai's skyscrapers on the Bund, and gain sufficient elevation to hurl her 8-inch shells over the settlement into the already mangled Chapei and North Station zones.

COLD "SHOTS" FOUND PARTLY SUCCESSFUL

Vaccines Help 80 Per Cent of 20,000 Persons Tested, Doctors Told.

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—Vaccines against the common cold, tried on 20,000 persons, helped 80 per cent of them—were useless for the others.

This verdict, the result of the largest, longest and most complete tests of common cold vaccination yet reported, was announced to the American Public Health association today.

All known kinds of cold vaccines were tried. All helped in the same way: they shortened the duration of common colds, kept people from feeling very sick, averted after-effects.

But none of them reduced the number of colds.

The report was made by Leverett D. Bristol, M. D., health director of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., New York City. With these human tests he explained there could be no "guinea Pigs," such as some persons left unprotected to learn how much worse off they might be.

But the lack of this scientific verification was partly made up by the fact that the tests were made in five different companies, independently. The vaccines were given to 20,100 persons for periods ranging from 17 years in one company to five years in the shortest test. The average is nine years.

The long time covered is one of the vital facts in the results. For epidemics of colds are severe winters, mild in others. Considering the different localities of the companies, today's report covers 46 years of "common colds."

MARION STORES SET WITH FALL STYLES

with or without a belt.

Hats have gone up in the air to astounding heights—one even flaunts the style name "stovepipe." Lots of models are being shown with flattering veils, and some are not only highcrowned, but way off the face. Felt leads now, with velour due to come into its own when winter coats are donned. Better hats and more of them are being sold this year, one milliner said.

Plaids for Children

Children are taking to the gay plaids and prints, and like their elders are going in for wools. Bright colors are the thing, and some of the plain blue and brown wools are trimmed with plaids to offset the deep shade. Sweaters are a never-old, never-new favorite with both boys and girls, and the girls choose to wear pleated or goged skirts with theirs. The boys are keen about jackets, heavy wool plaid or leather. One leather model zipped shut under the right collar, giving added protection against winter winds.

Wider shoulders, narrow waist, narrow hips and narrow trousers mark the 1937 suits for men, one haberdasher said. The new English double-breasted styles are good and so is the three-button model—the middle button to fasten. Stripes and herringbones are the thing, with tweeds and rough finish materials for semi-sports wear. Ties are going into stripes and shirts are in colors, with detachable collars gaining in favor and some with the new demi-bosom front. English wool hose in ribbed effects and patterns are good and for sports wear there are two-toned sweaters, the body and sleeves contrasting. Hat crowns are lower, brims are wider and the brims have a decided "snap" this year. The neatest thing on the racks of one Marion store are the new double utility coats. A heavy wool lining zipper into one model, transforming it from a light topcoat into an overcoat and another model is a reversible affair—tweed on one side and waterproofed gabardine on the other.

All in all, with the stocks in Marion stores to choose from, Marion shoppers will find themselves dressed in last-minute fashions.

WORK RELIEF SLASHED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—Reduction of work relief rolls in Ohio from 148,466 for the week ended Sept. 25, 1936, to 83,176 for the week ended Sept. 18, 1937, was announced today by the works progress administration.

OFFICERS HERE AID BRADY GANG HUNT

Trio Sighted Near Upper Sandusky Found To Have No Connection With Bandits.

Marion city and county authorities and a highway patrolman from the Marion sub-station participated in an exciting but shotless hunt for a suspicious looking automobile sought this noon in the vicinity of Upper Sandusky. The highway patrol headquarters said there had been a possibility that the trio in the car was the Brady gang, sought throughout the midwest for at least three murders and a series of bank robberies.

The hunt ended abruptly about an hour after it began when Deputy Sheriff Holden of Hancock county took the occupants of the suspected car into custody at Williamstown in Hancock county. It was immediately determined that the men were not members of the Brady gang.

The car, bearing Indiana license 544,909, was reported to have been seen near Upper Sandusky and the police radio carried requests for authorities in the vicinity to aid in the hunt. Sheriff Miller and Deputies Geissler and Wills and a highway patrolmen went north on routes 4 and 23 during the brief hunt. City police watched the intersection of routes 4 and 23 north of Marion.

The trio seized at Williamstown were released after they had identified themselves as tree trimmers. The fact that there were three of the men and that they were traveling in an Indiana automobile caused the officers to halt them.

MARION YOUTH HELD IN HACK SLAYING

der that his possible connection with the murder case might be thoroughly investigated at once.

Prosecutor Campbell, Sheriff Oscar George, both of Mt. Gilead, and Police Chief William E. Marks took the youth to the London prison farm Tuesday night for the lie detector test and questioning. Two representatives of the state bureau of criminal investigation and identification previously had spent several days aiding Morrow county authorities in an investigation of the murder, and assisted in questioning the youth Tuesday.

Detained Here

He has been turned back to Marion police for further questioning and investigation here, Prosecutor Campbell said. Meanwhile, the youth's statements about his activities at the time of the Hack murder will be checked carefully and the results of the lie detector test will be studied when they become available.

Arrest and questioning of the youth is the first development in the Hack murder inquiry since about three weeks after the aged woman, alone and unarmed, was shot in her bed at the farm home where she lived alone three and one-half miles southwest of Cardington on the Delaware road. Early phases of the investigation failed to yield any clues sufficient to warrant any prosecution, authorities said at that time. Family differences were studied and ballistics tests were made with half a dozen firearms in an effort to couple one them with the weapon that fired the three shots fatal to Mrs. Hack.

Mrs. Hack was reported to have had about $65 in cash at the time of the murder. Only $3 was found following the discovery of her murder several hours after she had been shot.

permits the war lords over there to wage war."

All three favored adoption of a boycott resolution at the federation's convention, although Woll added a boycot should be handled carefully.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Truck Drivers' union, said in a radio speech that Harry Bridges, Pacific coast C. I. O. director, could set aside the United States neutrality laws with a word if he so chose.

Tobin's Truck Drivers and Bridges's longshoremen have been at war for control of west coast warehousemen.

"If there should be a war in the far east broader in scope than it is now—and the outlook is dark, I think—it would be possible for Mr. Bridges to stop absolutely the shipments of all materials to whichever of the contesting nations he liked the least," Tobin said.

2 BRITISH SHIPS NABBED OFF SPAIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 7—Two British steamers were captured off the northern Spanish coast by a Spanish insurgent trawler, the admiralty said today.

The vessels were the Yorkbrook and the Dover Abbey.

The admiralty said "presumably" the ships were within territorial waters. It was pointed out that such vessels had been warned repeatedly they entered territorial waters at their own risk.

The capture was not observed by British warships (on regular patrol along Spanish coasts).

TRIO OF ILLINOIS CONVICTS ESCAPES

By The Associated Press

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 7—Three convicts slugged a guard into unconsciousness and temporarily used another for a hostage in making an escape from the Stateville prison honor farm early today.

The felons, all serving terms for robbery, waylaid J. W. Black during the change of shifts, and then forced Albert Drungen another guard, to accompany them.

Drungen, in whose car the convicts fled, was dumped out two miles north of the prison.

Easy Drape Trend in Men's Clothes

The function of properly tailored good clothes is to bring out your worthwhile points and conceal your bad ones . . . to please the eye of the beholder with smooth, graceful lines and skillfully blended colors . . . to insul in you a feeling of confidence and wellbeing, of pleasure and satisfaction.

That may seem like asking a lot of a suit of clothes or a topcoat, but the clothes this season come closer to approaching this ideal than ever before. First and foremost they're designed for wearability That, is, they discard all false impressions, they're natural. That may seem like a paradoxical statement in view of our very first sentence. However, clothes can be natural and at the same time can conceal defects while playing up good points.

The Wearable Drape Suit

You may have worn a drape suit three, four, even five or six years ago Fundamentally, there's nothing new about the models. The newness comes in the way it has been designed to overcome its early shortcomings. Only because the drape is a basically sound style has it refused to disappear from the style scene.

Today, every tailoring house in the country is featuring drape suits, and what's more, the drape trend has been carried over into the topcoat field But, first for the suits You may not be sure just what is meant by a drape suit You can always identify this style by the ripples of casual fullness in the chest and at the sleeve head Then, if you look closely you'll see other differences appear.

You'll see broad, but not exaggerated shoulders, a lowered collar line that provides perfection of fit at shoulders and back, gracefully tapered sleeves, slightly lowered opening at the front of the vest, wider lapels, lower waistline, lower pockets, high rise pleated trousers This suit gives a decidedly masculine impression, yet it is tailored with slender, graceful lines Although we have just described the double breasted drape rather thoroughly, the single breasted version of this model is proving equally successful

New Fall Suit Models

So much attention has been focused on the drape model and on new fabric developments it is not surprising to find new radical changes in other suit models. Quite a few men, men who have worn the drape, or who intend to have other suits in addition to it, have turned their attention to the peak-lapel single breasted models for fall.

It's a suit that is typically English, a suit that you'll see on nine out of every 10 Englishmen At one time the two-button single breasted peak-lapel models enjoyed some popularity in this country That popularity is returning. There are many reasons why this suit should be worn. In the first place the peak lapels give it a semblance of dignity that is lacking in the casual notch lapel model. Then, it is a welcome change between single and double breasted It is also being shown in a three-button version that is quite smart looking.

"Drape and model suits," says the style-wise man, "are the style for fall!" And he says it not with words, but with an overwhelming demand for this model. Illustrated above is the correct drape, tailored with fullness in the chest and shoulders, lower waistline, broader lapels and lower collar lines. The single breasted raglan topcoat, a favorite version is shown above, is a style that can be worn anywhere. Many new models are tailored along more extreme British lines.

Two and three-button single breasted suits with notch lapels have always been present to a lesser degree. This fall the number of men wearing them increases noticeably. These suits have been restyled to conform with the natural trend of the drape model and they have taken to the trend exceptionally well. Especially has the three-button jacket been styled to the point where it bears not the slightest resemblance to the college jacket you once may have known.

Topcoats Are Also Draped

It is trite to say that changes in men's clothing styles come slowly compared to changes in women's wear. Yet, it is true. And that it the reason why the raglan topcoat remains the leading seller in the topcoat field although the double breasted drape topcoat is the newest style development for all Started by the drape in topcoats is even more drape in tpcoats is even more pronounced. In both single and double breasteds its effect is seen.

As in the suit, ripples of fullness are shown in the chest and sleeve head, it is fitted in the waist, the buttons are placed lower to conform with the somewhat lower waistline. In the single-breasted a fly-front is featured and lapels are of the peak style. Pockets on many models are placed at a slight angle and carry flaps.

Roomier Raglans Rule

We have no quarrel with the raglan...it is without the slightest doubt, one of the most comfortable coats a man can wear. This fall it is especially easy-to-wear. Following traditional British lines it is roomier, hangs straight in front and shows two deep folds in the back hanging straight from the shoulder blades. That is the raglan in the truest sense of the word

Naturally, other raglans not quite so extremely styled are being featured. After all, any topcoat that has raglan shoulders is a raglan. Quite a few models follow that military lead and have convertible collars in the balmacaan style. Some have slash-through pockets set at a slant Fly-fronts conceal the buttons on other models. Altogether, the raglan picture for fall is crowded with model after model, all well-designed, all ready to defend their title of topcoat favorite.

Accessories in Colors of Years Gone By Return

Following the more elegant mode of this season, accessories are noted in deep rich colors worn during the 1900's, when elaborate social life brought luxury fashions to the fore. Deep greens, plum tones, acajou tones, are among the colors seen in handbags, gloves and other costume accessories

Brighter hues will mark the sports or collegiate fashions this Fall, however, and fashion forecasts bright matching accessories. Gloves to match sporty suede hats, or gay knit scarfs and sports socks, are among the new teammates of the color vogue

Travel handbags, sports handbags, daytime or afternoon pouches for Fall are equipped to meet the discriminating woman's needs, no matter where she goes. A complete Fall wardrobe of handbags is now a fashion essential, with styles ranging from strictly tailored and very large bags for traveling, to dressmaker bags of softly shirred leathers for dress.

Novelty shapes abound, with dressmaker handling of the leathers in gathers and folds, so that a newer softer look is achieved. Top-handles continue most important, but new versions include many novelty treatments with bats, chain effects and loops.

Spotlight Bright Bags

A mode of rich dark colors and much black for this season, gives splendid opportunity for contrast of color in Fall handbags. Accenting the note of color on frock or scarf of the suit, the new handbags become an important trimming to the costume itself. Fabric bags and embroidered designs give further accent to the mode of color in handbags, while in many of these there is a note of color piping or inset of color on the black or brown bag.

Gall Bladder Ailment.

LIKE OTHER structures of the body, the gall bladder is subject to many varieties of inflammation and infection Fortunately, it can be removed when disease takes the upper hand.

Many persons are puzzled when told the gall bladder is diseased and should be removed. "How can I get along without it?" is the common question. Yet, as I have said this structure can be removed without damage or danger

The gall bladder has always been the subject of discussion among laymen and doctors as well. It is a hollow sac located in the under surface of the liver The surgeon easily reaches it by making an incision in the upper right half of the abdomen When he takes out the gall bladder, he merely removes a reservoir or storage place for bile After its removal, the bile continues to be manufactured in the liver but now passes directly into the intestine where it assists in the digestion of food.

For centuries little was known about the gall bladder and how it worked Today, scientists have so perfected the examination of this organ that it is now possible actually to determine whether or not it is diseased, even before operation This is accomplished by means of X-ray

The patient swallows capsules which contain a dye. This dye is ultimately absorbed and carried to the gall bladder, where its presence helps to outline the parts. X-ray examinations will then determine whether it is enlarged, infected, inflamed or whether it contains gallstones.

The victim of gall bladder disease usually complains of "heartburn", indigestion and other common symptoms. Pain is confined to the abdomen and occasionally travels to the back and right shoulder. At times the discomfort is mild but persistent in its nature.

Do not delay if the gall bladder is found to be the seat of the disorder and operation is advised. In the hands of a competent surgeon, the operation is no longer a serious one. It is only serious when the inflammation or infection is allowed to persist and ultimately causes rupture Under such circumstances an emergency operation must be performed But, of course, not all disorders of the gall bladder require operation.

If gallstones are present, do not be misled into the belief that they can be dissolved by medicine. As yet no medicine is known to do this. Above all, never neglect any disorder of the gall bladder.

A.—Yes, it would be advisable to see a doctor and have him outline the necessary treatment. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

What's New in Men's Accessories

Although snap brim hats remain their lead a new style trend has come along that is definitely setting a new fashion in men's hats. It is the off-the-face or turned-up brim style.

This trend was to be expected after so many years of snap brim supremacy. Men started some thing different whether they knew it or not and they're starting it with hat brims that go up proud and haughty and free. These hats are generally worn with only a center crease in the crown the usual side dents have been discarded. New brim treatments such as welt edges, grosgrain welts and ribbed welts complete the major style trend.

Two Outstanding Models

The hats that will be worn free curling and the raw edge and the welt edge turned up from there. The raw edge style has a brim with a decided cup effect. The other has a carefully curled brim and a wide welt edge that emphasizes the becoming look. On both these hats the crowns measure 5¾ inches and the brims 2¾ inches showing that the trend is toward crowns and wider brims continues.

As was to be expected the homburg hat is enjoying greater popularity due to the interest in turned-up brims. Three models that are exceptionally smart are being shown in most hat directions. The first is the conventional shape with the tapered crown and dipped curled brim. The second is styled along more continental lines. It has a broader brim with less curl to it and a lower crown. The third homburg has a reverse welt edge showing a single row of stitching. All three will be worn by men who are dressing a bit more formally this fall season.

New Snap Brim Hats

Wider and lower . . . again snap brim hats are carrying crowns that average 5¾ inches and brims 2¾ inches. That's the basic block of the snap brim. However, variety enters in the shape of new brim treatments. The welt edge style that shows four rows of stitching is important. On other models the welt is reversed, or turned down and under instead of up and over. The beaded edge is another new note. On this hat the brim is thicker right at the raw edge than in the rest of the brim.

The Tyrolean influence that caused such a sensation a few seasons back persists, only in sports hats, where it rightfully belongs. Colorful feather mounts, badger brushes and corded bands are numerous. The crown is decidedly tapered although the brim, in deference to most men, is not quite as narrow as heretofore.

Rough finishes predominate the Tyrolean group. Some are fuzzy, others have only slightly napped surfaces while still others have more of a silky finish to them.

Illustrated above are a few of the important style trends for the fall season. The turned-up brim hat at the top is discussed on this page in detail. Satin neckwear is coming back strong and stripes and small figures are being shown. The trend in shirts is toward more formality with starched collars and cuffs returning to favor. New plaids will be seen in both silk and wool hose. Novel two-color small figured patterns and multiple stripes are other new patterns developed.

Gray, of course, is the leading color. But, newer colors are appealing to men looking for variety. Greenish-grays are slated for top style honors. Because it is a color that looks well on most men and because it is a color that blends nicely with other colors we predict more followers will adopt it.

Two Shirt Features.

Two things stand out in the new displays of fall shirts. The first is the preponderance of striped patterns and the second is the revival of the more dressy shirts.

There is apparently no limit to the number of striped patterns that can be turned out without duplication. In addition to the novel stripes of the past season are dozens and dozens of new ones. For example there are the widely set striped group. Outstanding here are the cardinal and burgundy stripes on dusty-tone-ground broadcloth; white cord stripes on gray backgrounds and combinations of gray white and pink.

Wide panel effects have also been achieved with stripes. Red stripes on straw colored ground, red and green on gray, tan and brown on white and wine and green on white are outstanding in this group. In addition to these, cross-stripes, often featured on demi-bosom shirts, are shown on soft collar models. The effect is exceptionally smart and should be in great demand.

Most men have always had a soft place in their hearts for the starched collar shirt. True, it isn't as comfortable or as casual as the attached collar and probably will not, at least in our lifetime, replace it, but it does have an unfailing sartorial effect when worn on dressy occasions. And starched shirts, dressy shirts are coming back . . . make no mistake about that!

Varied Neckwear.

As the trend to satin ties makes itself evident the style become more varied. At the International Polo matches at Meadow Brook last autumn it was noted that quite a few well-dressed men wore satin ties. Their influence has apparently caused a revival of an old style favorite.

So great is the pattern and color range that we shall have to content ourselves with pointing out a few of the designs that seem to set the pace. Squared patterns are first on the list. Large blocks are marked off by fine white lines and alternate squares are broken up into nine squares. Stripes are also very much in the picture. Simple bar effects are usually combined with dull or rough-surfaced silk stripes in the same shade. The large designs so popular this past summer cast some influence on some of the large patterned satins. However, when used, the big-pattern idea is carried by variations of weave rather than of colors.

Woven and printed effects are prominent in woven satins. Ovals, circles, squares and scroll ideas stand out in contrasting colors against the darker tones of the background. Solid colors is what most men think when satin ties are mentioned. And this fall sees the plain shades represented again.

Hose Patterns.

Wool hose and bold patterns . . . wool hose and brilliant colors . . . the two generally go together in the minds of most men. And this fall they get together in an unlimited number of ways.

Exceptionally clever is the way many of them have been patterned with the outstanding suit patterns in mind. The abundance of herringbone patterns in suits finds a counterpart in the number of herringbone patterns in wool socks. The effect is novel and the idea of matching hose patterns with clothing patterns is a smart one that no well-dressed man will overlook.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Three youthful "bandits" have learned that hair brushes pack a far greater wallop than guns. The youngsters were picked up by detectives after they stole a purse containing 87 cents. When detectives attempted to impress them with threats of imprisonment, the "bandits"—aged 8, 9, and 10—pulled out toy guns and stood their ground. They were turned over to their parents who promised to impress them with what would do the most good.

Year's Illness Proves Fatal to Mrs. Caroline McKinley Here.

Mrs. Caroline Frederica McKinley, 72, of Bucyrus, died last night at 9:15 at the Waddell Home on East Center street. She had been in failing health for the past year.

Mrs. McKinley had lived at the home since June 2, 1932. She was born May 17, 1860, in Bucyrus to Christian and Barbara Farber Eckenhauer, natives of Beilstein, Germany. Her husband, Charles McKinley, to whom she was married March 31, 1885, died on Feb. 4, 1932.

Surviving are a brother, Christian F. Eckenhauer of Bucyrus and four half-sisters, Mrs. Carrie Kennedy, Mrs. Ida Gubernath, and Mrs. Jeanette Hufnagel of Bucyrus and Mrs. Anna Burnette of Columbus.

Mrs. McKinley was a member of the Good Hope Lutheran church of Bucyrus and was a teacher in the Sunday school for many years.

The body was taken to the Mertz funeral home in Bucyrus.

OSTEOPATHS TO MEET

BUCYRUS, Oct. 7—A 6 o'clock banquet will open a district meeting of the Central Ohio Osteopathic society at the Hotel Weaver here tonight. Dr. R. R. Kale of Columbus is scheduled to deliver the address.

Slender Lines Achieved in Fall Styles

"Divinely slim...and most divinely tall!" is the fashion slogan for Fall, 1937!

For with the Paris Exposition showing fashion mannequins that are nearly seven feet in height, in the Pavillon de l'Elegance, and Directoire fashions once more important, the women of fashion will create for herself an "illusion of lovely height" with slender draped lines, in the new moulded dresses.

Draped as a Grecian goddess, in slinky silk jersey or glamorous satin, the New Woman of 1937 looks taller and more slender because of the clever seamings and drapings of her gown.

Straight Smooth Silhouette

Smoother fabrics that hang in heavy rich folds is another means of achieving the new slim lines. While fullness is often concentrated at the skirt front, or flares softly at the hemline, in many of the newer models the skirt hangs in the simplest possible lines, without a flutter or a ripple to detract from its straight look.

Satins, again the pet of a glamorous mode, are noted in rich dark shades and black. Jerseys, sooty black and elegant looking in their figure moulding lines, and new rich pile velvets are among the season's choice in dress fabrics. Cloaky crepes and metal-shot weaves, as well as the crispy ribbed silks of the bengaline type, are used in other dresses. Sheer wools that drape as beautifully as any other fabric, are another new discovery of Fashion, and artfully mould the silhouette in the new lines of beauty.

New Hats Revive Mode of Elegance

Dramatic silhouettes in Fall hats will frame every lovely feminine contour this season! Bringing back a mode of elegance and great beauty, Paris designers have borrowed from the rich headdresses of many nations. Special inspiration has been found in the "costume hats" and ornamental headdresses of such periods as the gay '90's, the 1900 to 1910 era and the Directoire period.

Oriental turbans, English and French military plumage, captivating cockades from Holland and Piedmont—these and many other lavishly ornamental headgear inspired the new Fall millinery. And for the first time in many decades, it may be said that "real millinery"—in the sense of beautiful and elaborate use of fine fabrics and feathers has come back into fashion!

"Peasant Bonnet" Style

Lace coronets of gold, rich caps of velvet, and wide flaring "winged" bonnets such as are worn for special occasions by the peasants of France, have inspired new "profile" hats that frame the faces and heads of smart women this season.

From Alsace to Venice and Sicily, these gay caps and bonnets are worn in rural districts. Colorful, exquisitely trimmed with rich embroideries and ribbon streamers, they launch a Fall millinery season that promises to give life to every costume of the day and evening.

Tilting Hats, Feathers!

"High Hat" Such is the phrase one hears everywhere this month, for Fashion has posed her newest hats high off the face to show the rows of curls across the forehead. The off-face movement of hats is further shown in the high sweeping feathers, or the upswinging brims that lift the lines on one side. The "ups and downs" of this year's hats will worry many a smart young person when Autumn breezes blow.

Even veiled hats are worn very high, almost in the manner of halos or crowns. And veils flutter far and wide, hanging at the back or floating gracefully away from the hat at the sides. When hats are veiled at the front, the veil is usually long in front, with no veil in back at all.

Colors on Smart Heads

With bright plumes and feathers, Fashion has also brought back rich drapings for hats, combining many colors. Inspired by the turbans of Indian notables attending the Coronation, Paris has found new and flattering effects in toques and turbans for Fall. High and often with feathers that sweep forward, these new toques will be the one bright spot in the Fall ensemble, for never before has the all-black costume been so important.

Plumes and feathers describe a mode of beauty and pre-war luxury in new fall hats. Sweeping high on one side, tilted far back off the new high-placed curls, or pulled rakishly forward, this season's hats are lovelier than ever. Rich velvets, gleaming satins and velours further the mode of elegance, while sweeping feathers and piled fluffs of ostrich enhance its flattery.

Attractive Dress Styles Designed for Daytime

Scintillating with metal threads that remind one of the days of a pageant at night the new fall afternoon dress is the pet of the fashion world. Dramatizing a mode in which elegance has returned, the dress for more formal daytime occasions is made short enough to reveal the ankles and has sleeves in which a metal thread is mingled through the soft fabric.

Jewel and print for morning at dresses and for wool the smart woman is completely attired for afternoon and evening occasions. And today the dress wardrobe must include smartly styled models appropriate for every occasion. Sportswear and morning frocks are popular in shirtwaist styles or simple coat styles of sheer wools and silks that have a lustrous texture that is soft and beautifully tailored.

Dress Wardrobe Essential

Following the lead of smart women are adopting the "schoolgirl" frock in soft tailored woolens or silks for all-day wear in town or for business. But when the clock strikes 12, the luncheon or mid-day hour appears, suavely draped and fashioned of lustrous satin or velvet, the smartest style of the season, sheer wools or satin the new daytime frocks may be fancy dressy with the new draped sleeves or quite simple with high collar and long sleeves.

Late afternoon sees a still more dramatic dress in the fashion scene. Glittering with metal trims or accented by jeweled clips it may be of flattering velvet. Other models are worn in simply styled black taffetas or georgettes, in which a dramatic touch of color is splashed at neckline and hem. Youthful styles have wider "swing" skirts that may be fully pleated or pleated.

Sophisticated gowns for evening are new in the long slim lines and corset waists. High draped bodices often accompany gently draped skirts with slim lines.

"Colorful" Furs on Rich Woolens Are New Feature

Pockets, plastrons, wide front tuxedo effects, and often entire sleeves are among the lavish fur trimmings on new Fall coats. Color contrasts and harmony is achieved through special shading on the furs. Flat furs are used in bandings and border effects, as well as to outline pockets and coat details. Soft long-haired furs give flattering effects on other coats, in softly rippled collars or tuxedos that reach down the entire front of the coat. Borders of fur are seen on more expensive coats.

Furs dyed to blend with or match Fall coatings is another luxury development of the new mode. White fox is frequently dyed in softly shaded colors that give the most flattering effect when blended with the color of the coat. Many sportsy furs are dyed black, or brown, to give dramatic contrast to the more sportsy woolens. Gray furs and blendings of cross fox and red fox are also used in lovely colorful trimmings on Fall coats.

Straight Boxy Coats New

More slenderizing than the coats of past seasons, the new straight "boxy" coat is popular with many smart women. It is often seen trimmed with flat furs, with youthful small collars and cuffs, amusing high pockets and bandings. In other models, the straight boxy front lines are contrasted sharply with the full circular backs of the coat. Swaggers are either boxy or combine these straight fronts with the full sweeping back lines that are so youthful.

SERIES EXPENSIVE FOR RADIO CHAINS

Without a sponsor this year for the first time in years, networks broadcasting the world series are paying all the cost. This includes chain facilities as well as time rebates for any programs that have to stand aside for the balls and strikes. The Associated Press reported today.

The right to put a microphone in the ball park is free as long as there is no sponsor. With a sponsor it costs $100,000.

President Roosevelt will speak at 11:45 a. m. over WEAF-NBC and WABC-CBS in observance of Pulaski day.

Tonight's programs: We the People returns with Gabriel Heatter; James Whitcomb Riley birthday program at 8:30 over WJZ-NBC.

Boxy Fur Coats New

Swagger lines in fur coats are varied with the new straight boxy lines in many models. Boxy and slim, these coats may flare in true swagger lines at the back. Other models retain the slender-ising boxy look in both front and back. In these the accented shoulder lines, interesting work-ing of the furs, and novel collars or pockets give the necessary in-terest to the silhouette.

Following the more formal mode for afternoon and evening, seal princess coats are a popular choice for the dressy daytime coat. Slender and pencil-like in their front lines, they flare slightly toward the back. In col-lar lines they retain the simple, smaller collar effects preferred by Fashion this year. In softer furs, such as broadtail and soft Persian or caracul, these prin-cess coats are apt to be more flared, and decidedly more "dressy" in their handling.

Fur Capes High Fashion

With the military swing, and straight military collars, the new fur capes belong to those spe-cialized fashions that are seen oc-casionally. Seal capes appear to be most popular, although shorter fur capes are seen in caracul, Persian lamb and other flat furs. Simple Johnny collars, or small Peter Pan collars, are often squared shoulders enhance the youthful look of these.

Extremely glamorous, the fur cape for evening carries out the casual simplicity noted in all furs this year. Beauty of the fur itself is enhanced by clever diagonal handling of the skins. Some con-trasts are achieved by use of shadings in the furs.

"Teddy Bear" Swaggers News

Fluffy haired furs in short boxy coats that look as snug and cozy as a Teddy Bear is the sea-son's discovery in short fur coats and jackets. Skunk, Australian opossum, raccoon, and other hardy furs make these for sports or daytime wear. Beaver and seal-skin are also popular in this styling. Glamorous fox or other long-haired furs are used for eve-ning. There is a youthful dash about these coats that indicates they are little coats with a big future.

Two coats instead of one, says the woman of fashion this year. A swagger knock-about for travel, sports, or general wear and the new dressmaker coat with slim lovely lines to give distinction for afternoon or evening. Gaily highlighted tweeds are the choice for swaggers, and smooth suede-like woolens are smart for dress.

ATTENDANCE SHOWS 10 PER CENT GAIN IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Turnstiles Clicked 9,447,497 Times During 1937 Season, Checkup Shows.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—Major league baseball attendance for the season just closed showed a 10 per cent increase over last year's figures and was within striking distance of all-time records.

Semi-official compilation by The Associated Press discloses a grand total of 9,447,497 fans passed through the turnstiles of the 16 American and National league clubs.

This compared with an aggregate of 8,568,000 in 1936, a mark producing a total increase of 882,497.

The all-time high was reached in 1930, when the total attendance for the two major circuits reached 10,186,000.

The most striking feature of this year's scoring is that the Detroit Tigers, second place club in the American league, set the attendance pace with a total of 1,183,000. This was a record for home game attendance in the major city and exceeded by nearly 40,000 the home game figures for the world champion, New York Yankees, hitherto the undisputed No. 1 drawing card.

American league attendance as a whole exceeded that in the National this year by more than 500,000. The Boston Red Sox was the only club in the junior circuit which failed to show an increase.

In the National league, where only half the eight clubs registered increases, the champion New York Giants and second-place Chicago Cubs came closest to the million-mark with 991,097 and 959,000, respectively.

The biggest single game attendance, 68,932, was registered at the Yankee stadium June 20, when the champions beat the White Sox twice. Tops in the National league was 61,756 at the Polo Grounds for a doubleheader between the Giants and Dodgers on Memorial day. At Cincinnati's municipal stadium, July 17 when Joe DiMaggio's streak was first put the Yankees over Bill Terry's New York Giants, the attendance was 59,604.

KANSAS WOMAN IN 13TH BID FOR FAME

Twelve Failures in National Golf Tourneys Fail To Daunt Contender.

By The Associated Press

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 7—After 12 years of fruitless staging at the Women's National Golf championship, Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City entered the quarter-finals today, convinced that "this is my year."

The sturdy fourth district matron, mother of a 22-year-old son, reached the semi-finals in three years out assuming always supposed. Maybe this 13th effort will be my lucky year."

In advancing to the quarter-finals, the Kansas City star ousted a former champion, Marion Hollins of California, and Marion Miley of Cincinnati, a pre-tournament favorite. Her opponent today was Mrs. Grace Lutz of Pacific Palisades, Calif.

CUBS BEAT SOX IN CHICAGO CITY TILT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—One more on the way toward getting even for some of the recent abuse heaped upon them by the White Sox, Charlie Grimm's Cubs sent righthander Curt Davis out today after their second straight victory in Chicago's city baseball duel series.

The Cubs, backing up Tex Carleton's five-hit hurling with a 15-hit blast at Teddy Lyons and Bill Dietrich yesterday, ended a long victory drought by winning the opening game, 7 to 3, before 14,568 customers at Comiskey park. The drought, which started with the final game of the 1931 series, had extended to nine straight defeats, the other eight having been collected by the American leaguers in matches of four in a row in 1933 and 1936.

CAMERA CATCHES FAST ACTION IN OPENING GAME OF WORLD SERIES

Two camera views of plays in the first inning of the World Series opener yesterday are shown in the accompanying International Illustrated News photographs. At the top, Joe DiMaggio, ace Yankee clouter, singled off the southpaw slants of Carl Hubbell in his first time at bat in the series. Below, Frank Crosetti, Yankee shortstop, is seen gliding back to first base ahead of a trap-throw from Gus Mancuso, Giant catcher. The game was played in Yankee stadium and won by the Yanks, 8 to 1.

Sidelights Of World Series

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—When the Yankees go out, they go "all out" as the boys say at the tracks. Young Master Melton has his work cut out for him if he wants to rub out the memory of that sixth inning yesterday. Giant fans are still shuddering. And why not?

After Bartell's rescue on Mancuso's throw it sounded like the Fourth of July. You can have Gomez and DiMaggio. We liked Lazzeri's execution of the hit and run in the sixth. He picked off a high, inside ball and hit past the runner. The perfect hit and run. And he added a homer and a swell play on a ground ball in the fourth.

Time changes everything as Eddie Windsor has been heard to remark. It was in back of the batting cage during Yankee practice. A candid camera bug ran up and asked Earle Combs, Yank coach, to watch the birdie. "You don't want me," said Earle, "you want the ballplayers." A decade ago Earle was the beau ideal of outfielders. No gardener could make the hard one look easier than the Kentucky colonel. Today he's the grey-haired gent that hits fungoes to the outfielders.

Gomez got a terrific bang out of hitting a ball into the right field stands in batting practice. None of the Yanks could remember him doing it before. As he stepped up to the plate to take another cut a wag said the Giants would pay for him on the running track. "Ah," said El Goofy, "I'll fool 'em. I'll bunt." The boy can pitch. When he uncorks that high hard one it looks like a string stretched between the mound and the plate. But all he takes about is his hitting.

Gus Mancuso had one of two uncomplimentary things to say about American league umpiring and Umpire Emmett Ormsby when the Giants got to their lockers. Gus claims Emmett missed Hubbell's low pitches. Mancuso gave a good imitation of "the thinker" during the Yank batting practice. He sat in one corner of the dugout and gave murderers' row the double-O. Carl Hubbell went around signing autographs. Something he doesn't usually do the day he is slated to pitch. Col. Bill Terry hove into view in a rubber sweatshirt and a donr look. Like all the Giants before the game he was calm. The Yanks collected

Five Ohio colleges may be members of a newly organized hockey league that will be started this winter. They are Western Reserve, John Carroll, Case, Baldwin-Wallace and Akron. Other members of the proposed circuit are Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech and Duquesne. One of the leaders behind the collegiate league is Al Sutphin, president of the Cleveland hockey club, who recently completed construction of a $1,000,000 rink at Cleveland.

Mal Elward, acting head coach of the Purdue football team that recently bowed to Ohio State, is credited with having made the "spinner" an integral part of the Notre Dame system. Elward devised the "spinner" and incorporated it into his offense in 1925. The late Knute Rockne adopted it the following season after several conferences regarding it with Elward, an old teammate.

George Gauthier, the genial Ohio Wesleyan football coach, is now employing a stunt that Harry Stuhldreher inaugurated at the University of Wisconsin last year. Gauthier will send a letter to all alumni and parents of students now enrolled in the Delaware school after four important grid games this fall. In them he will explain why the team won or lost, the outstanding individuals and what may be expected in future contests.

When Kiki Cuyler was given his unconditional release recently by the Cincinnati Reds, the National league lost one of its most popular and colorful performers. Despite a poor season this year, several thousand Cincinnati fans signed a petition to have Cuyler named manager of the Redlegs for 1938. In 16 years of major league competition Cuyler played in 1787 games, scored 1250 runs, made 2230 hits and stole 321 bases.

Harding athletes, fresh from the victories over Upper Sandusky and Delaware Wells, but [illegible] keeping in mind their unimpressive showing in the inaugural against Mt. The team went through a long practice drill yesterday afternoon and was to have another short [illegible]-up session tonight.

Holds Weight Advantage

Marion's team will take the field with a slight weight advantage on the line, while the Cramermen will have a [illegible] advantage over the Lima South backs. The invaders average 190 on the line and 160 in the backfield, while Harding has a weight average of approximately 185 in both departments.

The game will be the third appearance of the Cramermen on the home field, as well as the renewal of athletic rivalry between the competing schools. To win the encounter, Harding must do what only one other team has accomplished this season—cross the well-defended Tiger goal line.

Featuring a strong running attack off single wing and punt formations, the Tigers swamped Pandora, 31 to 0, defeated Lima Shawnee, 25 to 0, but fell before Troy, 14 to 7. Troy's team capitalized on 70 and 96-yard runs, one coming after an intercepted pass, to become the only team to wade beyond South's 20-yard line.

Rallies Planned

Activity in connection with the Harding-Lima South conflict will begin many hours before the teams take the field. The Presidents have been invited to take part in a public rally at the Palace theater tonight and high school assembly rallies tomorrow should send the team's spirit to a pre-game peak. Harding's band will march through the uptown district immediately preceding the game.

UPPER SANDUSKY 11 TO BATTLE TIFFIN

Special to The Star.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 7—Rallying his shattered cohorts after the drubbing by Marion last Saturday, Coach Robert Hutton is preparing to get his team in shape here for Friday afternoon's meeting with Tiffin Calvert and the local eleven's second League of Six Nations game of the season. The Oneidas defeated Fostoria St. Wendelin 6 to 0 at Fostoria recently for their first league victory, but are not very confident of defeating the Tiffinites, who last Friday turned back Bucyrus 39 to 6.

BUCKEYES DRILL AT CHICAGO GRIDIRON ON WESTERN JAUNT

Ohio State Squad Pauses Enroute To Meet Southern California Saturday.

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—Nothing that happens when his boys start defending their Big Ten title against Michigan Saturday is going to surprise Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern's Wildcats.

The Wildcats of 1936 stirred up a lot of surprises for Waldorf, most of them easy to take. This year, however, there are so many green hands operating where veterans held forth in the big title drive, that he needs a couple of games to get an idea of what to expect. He figures Michigan will clarify the situation.

The Wildcats have been drilled most of this week on ways and means of looking after two Michigan sophmore backs, squatty Hercules Renda, and triple-threat Fred Trosko. The Wolverines spent another day on fundamentals, Coach Harry Kipke also definitely gave up his plan of converting Fred Jahnke, a tackle, into a fullback.

At Illinois, Coach Bob Zuppke showed signs of optimism for the first time this season as his squad produced real drive in the offensive maneuvers with which he hopes to surprise Notre Dame Saturday. The Irish got another warning from Elmer Layden in the form of a forward pass defense session, indicating the Irish coach is certain Zuppke will come up with something unusual.

While Indiana hustled through a workout on running and aerial plays to be used at Minnesota Saturday, the Gophers were given another dose of fundamentals by Bernie Bierman. Wisconsin and Chicago, which tangle at Chicago, staged pleasing offensive showings in their final hard workouts.

Coach Mal Elward strove for more "umph" in Purdue's offense as the Boilermakers polished their game for Carnegie Tech's invasion.

Iowa, with Bradley coming up Saturday, continued to look ahead to the Wisconsin clash next week. Coach Irl Tubbs checking over every item of the Hawkeyes' game. Ohio State, enroute to its battle with Southern California at Los Angeles, whipped through a brief workout at Stagg Field, Chicago's home park.

BEARS BEAT BIRDS TO WIN TITLE IN LITTLE WORLD SERIES

Columbus Loses Fourth in a Row After Beating Newark Three Straight.

BY FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7—If the New York Yankees don't win that big World Series they can't blame it on their International League farm hands, the Newark Bears, for the bushers showed 'em how by wrapping up and tucking away the Little World Series championship.

While the "papa" Yanks are out in front by winning the first game from the Giants, the "baby" Yanks won their laurels the hard way—and proved their claims to the title of the "wonder club of the minors."

They clinched the championship on a muddy diamond here last night by romping over the Columbus Red Birds, American Association champs, by 10 to 4, for their fourth straight victory. The Red Birds had won the first three at Newark, but the Bears had the punch in the pinch after the trek west and Columbus didn't have a chance.

In fact, the Birds were so much out of it that they scored only six runs in the 36 innings here, while the Bears were piling up 29. For the entire series the Birds had 22 runs to 40 for Newark.

Five pitchers, four of them the top-notchers on the Red Bird staff, tried in vain to halt the rampaging Bears last night, but gave 15 hits, including four doubles, a triple and a home run. While that barrage was going on, the Bird batters collected but nine hits, including a lone double and a last-inning homer.

As a result of their win the Bears took down $638.24 each from the players' pool of a bit more than $22,000, while the Birds became richer by $404.68 each.

Joe Beggs started the final game for the Bears, but gave way to Pat Page, recently of Kansas City, as the Birds staged a two-run uprising in the fourth.

Nelson Potter started for the Birds, and then came Bill McGee, Max Macon, John Chambers and Ed Heusser.

MARION CO. GRIDDER ON CAPITAL SQUAD

George Seas Among Freshmen Working Toward Varsity Spot Next Year.

George Seas, son of C. H. Seas of near Marion, is making his mark as a freshman football player at Capital university in Columbus, according to a news dispatch from the university's publicity bureau. The former Harding High school pupil is one of a large group of freshman gridders who are working out under the direction of Coach Al Goehle to prepare for varsity competition next year.

While the frosh are ineligible for varsity service the Capital yearlings have an annual encounter with the Capital Seminary team. The game, to be played Nov. 15, is one of the highlights on the Capital athletic calendar.

BUNTS

THE longest World Series game in history lasted 14 innings, in 1916, with Boston winning from Brooklyn, 2-1. There was a 12-inning, 3-3 tie between Chicago and Detroit in 1907. There was an 11-inning, 6-6 tie between New York (N. L.) and Boston in 1912. And there was a 10-inning, 3-3 tie between both New York clubs in 1922.

PUSHES WAR ON RACKETEERS

Herringbones Are Favored Patterns for Men's Wear

One of the most notable men's style innovations for fall is the remarkable variety present in herringbone patterns. The closely woven, rather small herringbone, the one you are probably most familiar with, forms the basis for the new trend.

Exceptionally wide herringbones, herringbones that carry a light check or overstripe, alternating and two-color herringbones dominate most suit selections. Topcoat makers have also adopted some of the new patterns and you'll see them tailored in the popular double breasted drape models.

New Contrasting Colors

Herringbnes aren't the only new patterns. Grouped stripes in colors on two-tone grounds are being featured. The addition of oversquares in shades to harmonize with the background proves to be a brilliant thought. Effects such as these are not too bold for the average man and they tailor nicely in either single or double breasted models.

Alternating single and double stripes on a two-tone ground give the ordinary striped pattern something to strive for. The smartness of this combination will appeal to most men immediately

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—In the heavens above the south pole a Harvard telescope has photographed—and counted — 36,000 galaxies—separate star systems, each like the Milky Way.

This means that if man had telescopic eyes and turned his face upward at night from the south pole, the sky would not be black, but one nearly solid sheet of light. This particular sheet covers seven per cent of the sky.

It would have some dark places. But they would be due to dust far out in space, hiding still other galaxies not included in the 36,000

The eye doesn't see these star systems because they are too far away.

This host of celestial objects is only the beginning of what modern telescopes are beginning to discover in the space far out behind the visible stars. Dr Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory, estimates that the Harvard instruments alone will eventually photograph at least half a million of these distant galaxies.

Each is a collection of billions of stars Each occupies a niche in space like that held by the Milky Way.

NOTE TO JAPAN HELPS STOCKS

Condemnation on Heels of Roosevelt Speech Gives "War Babies" a Whirl.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 — International developments hinging on Washington apparently steamed up some of the old-time "war babies" in today's stock market and inspired a recovery trend in other departments.

The list shook off early selling with little difficulty and advances running to three or more points were widely distributed near the fourth hour. Dealings were slower than in the preceding session.

Action of the state department in lining up the United States with the League of Nations in condemning Japan as a treaty breaker caused little excitement in the boardrooms, although the turn of events naturally aroused thoughts of expanded armament programs with selected companies reaping benefits.

Aircrafts were among the first to be given a lift. Steels then were taken in hand, along with coppers, oils, farm implements and miscellaneous issues. Rails and utilities were moderately improved.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Prominent on the upside most of the time were Douglas Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright "A", Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Crucible, American Smelting, U. S. Smelting, Deere, Westinghouse, du Pont, U. S. Rubber, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide and Allis Chalmers.

With continuance of gold hoarding abroad, brokerage quarters expressed interest in the Committe for the Nation's telegram to the President urging the domestic gold price be hoisted from $35 an ounce to $41.43 as a means of offsetting the steady fall of commodities and securities.

Not overlooked also was the contrary view of Chairman Carlisle of Consolidated Edison warning against a rising spiral of prices and wages as a solution to economic problems, and suggesting that the distribution of more goods "at possibly lower prices" was the sound way out of the current impasse.

America's stand on the Sino-Japanese conflict, it was pointed out by some observers, will not necessarily mean invocation of provisions of the neutrality act which would embargo exportation of arms, ammunitions and implements of war to either country. The Chinese, it was added, would suffer the most if such an embargo were declared.

ALLIGATOR STRAITS

AVON, Conn. — If it were possible to leave a lighted candle in the Farmington river here one would be placed there, or a lantern to guide a wandering alligator home. The animal belongs to Frederic Wallace Jr. of College Highway, and wandered away from his master. Mrs. Wallace says the "baby has run away before but this time he has been gone for several weeks. Apparently he believes that he travels faster who travels alone. For he has left his mate behind.

It is his second story to appear in a magazine of national circulation, the first having appeared about a year ago in Collier's.

DR. SMILEY INVITED TO NEW PASTORATE

Former Presbyterian Pastor Here Considers Call to Youngstown Church.

Dr. Raymond W. Smiley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Marion from 1923 to 1927, has been given a unanimous call to the First Presbyterian church of Youngstown, according to a news report from Bloomfield, N. J., where he is pastor of the Westminster church.

The decision as to whether he will accept the call will be made Sunday or Monday. The Youngstown church is said to be the oldest and largest in the Mahoning presbytery and has a membership of 1,400.

Dr. Smiley came to Marion from Pittsburgh and left here to accept a pastorate in Steubenville where he served until 1933 when he went to Bloomfield. He was awarded a doctor's degree in 1934 from Monmouth college in Illinois. Dr. Smiley has been active in church and civic affairs in Bloomfield and is a member of the board of trustees of Bloomfield college and seminary.

FLOOD PROJECTS IN ARMY'S HANDS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 — The works progress administration said today army engineers have sole jurisdiction in carrying out an Ohio river valley flood control program authorized by the last session of congress.

The program will be financed with relief money, WPA officials said, but direction of the work rests with engineers.

The war department has submitted to the budget bureau a list of projects ready to be undertaken as soon as funds, local and federal, are made available. The list must be approved by the bureau and President Roosevelt.

ONE-WHEEL LANDING FOLLOWS BLOWOUT

Plane's 21 Passengers and Crew Safe as Result of Crack Piloting.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 7—A landing's just a landing, whether it's on one wheel or two, to Airline Pilot Roscoe (Rocky) Kent.

To prove it, he has 21 passengers and two co-fliers safe and sound, $150,000 worth of flying equipment intact, and his own nerves as good as ever after maneuvering a plane with a blown-out tire to a safe landing at Newark airport, nearest said.

There was more excitement on the ground than in the plane, witnesses said.

Up aloft, the hostess piled pillows and blankets around the passengers to break the force of the bump—or worse—that was expected to come, and they talked about the world series.

Down below, an alarm that a crippled plane was heading in from Buffalo brought police emergency apparatus, fire engines, ambulances, national guardsmen, firemen in asbestos suits, and hundreds of thrill-seekers to the airport.

None of the rescue forces was needed however. The 24-year-old Kent brought down the big Douglas transport (of American Airlines) so easily late yesterday that none aboard was shaken up.

The hostess Miss Mary Jo Anastasi, 27, of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., said some of the passengers told her they thought Kent could "land a plane better on one wheel than some pilots could on two."

Shortly after the plane left Buffalo on a flight from Chicago to Newark, she said, the tire blew out with a sound "like the popping of a balloon."

"The passengers didn't think anything was out of order," she said. "I crawled into the cockpit and Kent told me what had happened. I didn't tell the passengers until 10 minutes before the landing.

"The passengers were swell. They were more interested in the world series than anything else and kept asking for the score. When we landed, they were sweating from the blankets, but that was all."

SELLING SPREE CLIPS WHEAT FIVE CENTS

Rains in Argentine Grain Belt and Large Russian Shipments Prove Bearish.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 — Wheat prices plunged downward the 5 cents a bushel daily limit today as a heavy selling movement developed in the final hour. Market values fell to the lowest levels of the season.

Rains in southern sections of the Argentin wheat belt, large Russian wheat shipments to Great Britain and the continent and lagging export demand for American wheat inspired selling attributed to eastern sources and the decline of prices touched off general stop loss liquidation.

Failing to rally from the lows, Chicago wheat closed 4¾ to 5 cents below yesterday's finish, December 1.01⅛, May 1.01⅞, corn was 1⅝-2⅜ down, October 65, December 59½-⅝, May 60⅝, and oats lost ¾-⅞.

There was great guffawing among the firemen when the new car rolled up to the door of headquarters with "fire cheif" beautifully lettered in gold letters on the doors. Back it went to the painter for revised spelling of chief.

SOIL PROGRAM CHECK DEADLINE IS OCT. 31

Committee Urges Prompt Action from Farmers Who Have Delayed Requests.

Marion county officials in charge of the 1937 federal soil conservation program said today they have been notified by the state administration that the deadline for farm owners to request performance check-up of their farms has been extended from Sept. 15 to Oct. 31. Although many of the 1,500 farms participating in the county have completed, a few owners are still requesting inspections, officials said.

The extension refers to the first performance check-up which was begun in August. A second checkup will be started about Oct. 15 to inspect farms where special soil building activities have been practiced. The first checkup was mainly to determine the kind and amounts of crops grown.

The farmers were notified last July of the coming inspection by mail and the few who are still requesting inspections are those who were inadvertently overlooked in mailing notices, officials said.

Farmers are urged to file their requests immediately in order to speed up the work and make it possible for others to receive their benefit payments earlier.

New "Costume Ensemble" Wins Favor

Today's smart woman chooses her dress to ensemble with her coat or suit, or prefers the new "costume ensemble" in which clever designers have harmonized these important basic garments. Two weights of woolens are used in many of these, the sheer soft woolens, or silks, for the dress, combined with a harmonized wool coating. Often the fur is the harmonizing factor in bringing about this important relationship.

Striking fur bandings, and wide soft tuxedo collars of fur extend down the fronts of many of these coats. Small fur collars and pocket bandings on the frock may carry out the ensemble theme still further, but usually the dress or suit is unfurred. Capes with fur or plain collar lines ensemble with other smart frocks.

Dramatic Fur Contrasts

Blue fox set off by olive green is one of the many smart new contrasts shown on ensembles. Red fox on dull black suede cloth creates a striking contrast on others. Lynx, wolf or other light furs give stunning effects when used lavishly on dark browns or black suits. The use of rich mink and mink browns on black is also rich looking.

Silver fox is starred in the costume ensemble mode, with its elegant and luxurious use in collars, front borders and even tunic borders around coats. And black costumes are given lovely contrasts by the use of shining black furs on soft dull suede woolens, or soft flattering black furs on shining hairy woolens.

Afternoon Suit New Vogue

Beautifully feminine are the new afternoon suits in velvets or velvety woolens combined with luxurious furs. Coat styles range from swagger types to short fitted dressmaker jackets worn over dresses. Many of these ensembles combine a skirt and jacket with an elaborate satin or metal blouse in the same color as the woolen, giving harmony that is both becoming and distinctly new.

Dinner Suits Tailored

Paris launched the dinner suit in almost mannish styling some time ago, but its sophistication barred it from many wardrobes. Now, however, it comes out for fall in the soft dressmaker styling distinctive of many suit costumes. Lovely metal or satin blouses give the "above the table" glamour wanted for restaurant dining. Net yokes and lacy effects give a low decolletage effect in many others.

The combining of very lavish fabrics or furs in dinner suits having tailored lines is another new development. In general, however, the dressy costume is preferred. Jackets or boleros cover the sparkling blouses in most of these, and make the costume look more like an afternoon frock when worn for street. Jet beadings and sequins give sparkle to many black costumes of this type.

Suede Woolens Popular

Sleek plaid woolens in the dark rich colors of the Directoire Period give radiant beauty to many of the new wool costumes for fall.

Slim and lovely, the new fall suits combine beautiful wool colorings with flattering fur contrasts. Pencil lines distinguish many of these, while others have the youthful swagger popular in tweed travel costumes. Dyed furs are newest, but the striking color effects of softly toned blue fox, cross fox, silver fox, lynx and other rich furs give flattery to all of them.

Coats and suits, as well as dresses are shown in these flattering shades, such as plum red, wine tones, olive green and a suave brownish green that is extremely flattering.

Combining well with the gray and reddish brown furs so popular for trimmings, these new coats and suits ensemble well with accessories. Blue fox grays are especially lovely when used with these Directoire reds or greens.

Grandma's Suit New Again

The smoother woolens seen in dressier fitted suits and coats this season revive the elegant mode of the 1900's. Broadcloth and suede finish woolens, velvety types that have an elegance of their own, and smoother nubby woolens are all seen in these fitted suits, and the new straighter pencil-line suit.

Again reviving the modes of the past, Scotch woolens are seen in suits too. Large checks and plaids, thick and warm woolens with heavy nubby surfaces and hounds' tooth checks are among the fabrics used in jackets. These may be combined with plain skirt and topcoat, or may be worn in entire suit costumes. Shepherd checks is another of Grandma's favorites that is back in fashion. It is especially favored for youthful suits for the college or teenage girls.

Soft as down, these new tweeds are seen in suits. For they have downy soft feathers interwoven in the wool. The effect is one of unusual beauty, too, for the hairy or feathery touch softens the collar and gives a lovely mottled tone that is most flattering.

Many of the new woolen colors are inspired by these hairy or feathery surface fabrics, such as grape juice reds, slate blues, oak leaf rust, etc. In black or dark browns they are lovely, too, softening the sharp outlines and giving a rich texture to the suit or coat.

Pump Again Popular in Shoe Styles

The return of the classic pump and the continued popularity of the high-cut styles are two fashion notes from Marion shoe merchants.

The pump is a foot flatterer with its young trim lines, and women love to be flattered. One leading manufacturer of opera pumps reports reorders more than twice the size of last year and that's an indication of the mid-winter and spring trend.

But nothing will completely supplant the high molded front which is an established favorite now and there are many women in Marion and all over the country who will continue to ask for it, particularly the gored front treatment.

Suede leads the list to the middle of November and will continue the top material among those women who have already purchased their winter stock of footwear.

However, the fashion-conscious and practical woman will be eyeing the new smooth leathers and fabrics, notably gabardines, which will come along in Marion stores in the next two months.

Galoshes Fit Easily

Not only will the leathers and fabrics be newer, but—here's a point with the Marion woman who is out-of-doors a great deal in winter—gal shes will slide over them much easier than over suede.

Black and brown are still the favorite best-sellers, say the Marion merchants, but blue is growing in importance in the novelty group which includes wine, green, rust and spice. As to trimmings, Marion women can depend on this information: The most popular is the wide band or narrow piping of a contrasting leather surface. Strippings, of grosgrain ribbon or moire are good, also buttons, bows, scalloping and pipings. Kid is frequently used in pipings and a smart note is silver kid on black suede and gold kid on brown. Some opening up of the vamp in all high fronts is noticeable, also overlapping asymmetric effects. Stitchings are cleverly used to emphasize these details, the interest in multicolor being seen in multicolor threads.

Toes are generally rounder, say the merchants, and for dress the trend is to higher heels, although there are many women who will not follow this dictate, refusing to budge from their stand for a lower, shaped heel.

Dance goers, largely Marion's dance club members and the sorority girls who give several dances through the season, should hearken to the new winter evening styles which Marion merchants say will lead.

For the robe-de-style or "waltz dress" there will be sandal with a high-molded front; for the long pencil slim skirt of the Directoire dress there will be a low-cut sandal with ankle strap, and with the revival of the hour glass figure, or Gibson Girl style of evening dress, there is also revived the evening pump.

Materials? Evening slippers will come in glittering lames and brocades, satin, mostly tintable, which continues to be first-rank, faille, moire, and gold and silver kid.

Variety of Leathers

For children, merchants say elk is outstanding among the leathers, and in washable white it continues one of the leading leathers for babies. Smooth calf is one of the ideal leathers for the older boys and girls who have reached the style-conscious age and in higher-priced shoes for boys Norwegian calf is important. Girls who want a shoe with a suitable finish to wear with sport clothes, are offered reversed calf. Alligator calf and lizard calf are shown by several manufacturers.

Brown is way ahead in the color field for boys and girls although virtually all types of leather and patterns are made in both black and brown.

Marion shoe stores find oxfords, usually blucher type with tips, have the biggest sales in small sizes for boys and girls.

Boys' shoes present a fairly complete duplication of men's patterns, Wing and straight tips are both important, especially the latter.

Withered Plant Yields Blossoms in Kenton Garden.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 7—Mrs. B. E. Zimmerman of Kenton today had a plant phenomenon for the books.

Mrs. Zimmerman plucked from her rose garden a calendula on which 11 stalks protruded from the boll of a dead blossom, and each carried blossoms. The 11 golden blossoms apparently are extension of stalks leading to the dead bloom as observers said there was no indication of root growth and that seeds within the old blossom were still too green to sprout.

Marion Man Has Unique Light in Garage and Yard

...n's invention that ... a delight to absent-... is saving him and ... the unpleasant task of ... the darkness when ... the garage back ... late at night.

... is E. C. Garver of ... street and his in-... an automatic device ... a floodlight in the ... house without any attention from the driver.

Two sections of garden hose lie across Mr. Garver's driveway. One end of each section is connected with a small box in which there is an electric switch and the opposite ends are plugged. The compression of air in the hose when struck by automobile tires operates the switch.

The switch box is a remote control unit which actuates a switch in a box inside the garage. The garage box, more complicated than the one connected with the hose, houses two switches and remnants of an electric clock.

When an automobile comes into the driveway, the switch connected with the hose operates a locking switch inside the garage that turns on a 150-watt floodlight mounted on a 20-foot pole in the rear yard. This floods the entire back yard and approach to the garage. A 40-watt bulb inside the garage is also operated by the same switch, and as these lights go on the electric clock begins operating. It is set in such a way that after four minutes it automatically operates another switch that breaks the circuit and turns off the lights.

"We can drive into the garage at night and have four minutes—which is ample time—to close the garage, lock it and go into the house," Mr. Garver explained. "The automatic throw-off switch eliminates any possibility of the lights burning when they are not needed."

He also explained that driving out of the driveway automatically turns off the lights. One of the two pieces of garden hose across the driveway serves to turn on the lights, the other to turn them off. Also, the lights can be turned off or on inside the house if Mr. Garver wishes, by means of button switches operated by hand.

The unusual assembly, made in Mr. Garver's basement workshop, cost approximately $25.

Science Invents New Fabric Furs for Fall Coats

Catering to the whim of fashion, science has turned its attention, very successfully, to the creating of fur fabrics which look so real that they can scarcely be told from the fur itself. The demand for fur trimmings handled in soft collars and bandings, it is said, has encouraged the use of scientifically created fur fabrics, as they are more pliable than many inexpensive furs and better suited to this handling.

Persian lamb, krimmer, and other flat furs appear successfully in the role of fur fabric trimmings on even very expensive costumes. No attempt is made to disguise the fact that these are fur fabrics, as fashionists point out that they belong to the mode for more elaboration in trimmings rather than to an attempt to substitute furs.

Tests made by a University of Maryland scientist who attached return address tags to 10,000 crabs showed that they migrate south in the fall and north in the spring.

In the Name of Peace.

IN THE NAME OF PEACE, which is the customary introduction to statements of foreign policy when there is imminent danger of war, President Roosevelt bristled moderately at the world from a speaking platform in Chicago Tuesday.

His countrymen and the world, are trying to understand as clearly as possible what he intended to convey by his words. If they are arriving simultaneously at different conclusions, their various viewpoints possibly prove to Mr. Roosevelt that his speech was as much a success as he hoped it would be. He apparently was trying to cover several points of view.

By condemning international anarchy he pleased each of several groups positive that some other group is guilty of that charge. Some think Mr Roosevelt meant Japan, some think he meant Italy and Germany and some think he meant Russia.

By declaring strongly for peace, the President gratified most peace lovers. At the same time, the fact he has aligned the United States more closely with Great Britain and France, both dealing with the war problem realistically these days, is entirely satisfactory to those who believe that when the war crisis occurs this country should be ready to fight—in the name of peace, of course.

The United States must have a foreign policy. Most of the time since the World war it has made up its policy as it went along. In the first far eastern crisis, when Japan invaded Manchuria; it took the lead in condemning that act of aggression. Great Britain and France failed to follow.

Now, with those two governments showing an inclination to take the lead in protecting their interests in a matter closer to home—Spain—President Roosevelt has committed this government to a position of support much farther advanced than most Americans were prepared to expect.

It is a timely reminder that in addition to all its other problems the Roosevelt administration must deal, also, with foreign policy. Apparently, the President has decided to move from a point midway between isolation and intervention, which is where State Secretary Hull left the administration in his most recent speech, to a point a little closer to potential intervention. To that extent, peace has been served by his statement.

It's Here.

IT'S easy to become flushed with anticipation of pleasure about the possibilities of radio during the world series.

For one of these days, or so listeners believe, they will become watchers—at radioside. John Tunis wrote recently in The Atlantic Monthly about watching championship in tennis on a television screen. It wasn't a stunt, but a completely satisfying experience.

The world series has been a climax to the broadcasting year ever since radio sets began to fill up empty corners in the American home. When upward of half the country's population can and does keep track of a baseball game by radio, the age of communication is here.

If only all the possibilities were as pleasant as the prospect of some day seeing a slugger hit a double and get thrown out at third trying to stretch it! Even so, maybe a world series by television will be worth the politicians and special pleaders who will intrude the rest of the year.

Quiet, Please.

IT is conceded with no reservation that the bitterest invective being hurled publicly in the United States today comes from William Green and John L. Lewis, who are striving mightily for supremacy in leadership of organized labor.

There can be no triumph for either of them as long as they continue to employ tactics like those they are using. The thing both of them and their followers are neglecting is the importance of public confidence. They have abused it shamefully.

If they cannot get along with each other and persist in showing it by intemperate outbursts of abuse, they should not expect the public to think better of either or both of them than they think of each other. After all, they are in the best position to know about the personal issues they are arguing so furiously.

The American Federation of Labor is holding its annual convention. In a few days, the Committee for Industrial Organization will hold a convention. The most important piece of business before the delegates, if they have courage to tackle it, is to remind Mr Green and Mr. Lewis that organized labor continues to be more important than their personal animosities

RECREATION.

President Roosevelt Raises Question Concerning Value of Japan's Signature on Treaties.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—President Roosevelt has raised a question to which the world can give answer by looking at the record. It is this: What is the signature of the Japanese government worth? Can the word of the Japanese emperor and Japanese parliament again be accepted in the council of civilized society?

The issue is a simple one. It is written in a treaty which has now been made a "scrap of paper" by a government that has heretofore asked to be considered the equal of other powers. The pact is usually called "the Nine Power treaty" because nine nations, including Japan, signed it. Article I reads in full text as follows:

"The contracting powers, other than China, agree:

"(1) To respect the sovereignty, the independence, and the territorial and administrative integrity of China;

"(2) To provide the fullest and most unembarrassed opportunity to China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stable government;

"(3) To use their influence for the purpose of establishing and maintaining the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations throughout the territory of China;

"(4) To refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states, and from countenancing action inimical to the security of such states."

Can it be said that Japan has respected the "sovereignty" or "independence" or the "territorial and administrative integrity" of China? Without a declaration of war, Japan has invaded Chinese territory. Likewise Japan has countenanced action inimical to the subjects and citizens of friendly states, as, for instance, the bombing of Shanghai and Nanking

Enter Into Pledge

The nations which signed the treaty—Japan, the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, The Netherlands, China and Portugal—entered into a solemn pledge to consult one another when trouble arose in China. The wording of the pledge given in Article VII is significant. The exact text follows:

"The contracting powers agree that, whenever a situation arises which in the opinion of any one of them involves the application of the stipulations of the present treaty, and renders desirable discussion of such application, there shall be full and frank communication between the contracting powers concerned."

Japan ignored this promise and did not consult any other powers before her sudden invasion of China. But even more reprehensible is Japan's violation of another treaty, broader and more extensive in the number of nations which are bound to it. This is called the "Kellogg-Briand treaty to outlaw war, a pact signed by virtually all the nations of the world, including Japan. In that treaty, Japan gave her word in Article I not to engage in hostilities. The exact text follows:

"The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another."

Then came, in Article II of the same treaty, this specific promise:

"The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means."

Certainly the sanctity of treaties must be preserved or the world has no system of law or morality to depend upon and instead there is international anarchy. When, therefore, a government like that of Japan flagrantly and deliberately violates treaty pledges, shall the rest of the governments sit silent? The League of Nations in Geneva has answered the question by formulating a report denouncing Japan's course. The United States, though not a member of the League, lends moral support to what the league contemplates by issuing at Washington an independent declaration branding Japan an aggressor nation

Whole World Unites

Here, for the first time, the whole world unites in declaring a nation to be the aggressor which violates the territorial integrity of another nation. The situation differs from 1914 because, when Germany made a scrap of paper of her pledge to respect the neutrality of Belgium, Europe was forced into war. Today, physical force is not offered as a means of punishing the violator of treaties. Instead, the whole world tries moral force—universal condemnation.

It might be asked of what avail are mere words of denunciation. When they come from all the governments of the world, they impress the peoples of the world. Japan's products must find a market or her government goes bankrupt. Japan's credit must be preserved throughout the world or she faces serious internal troubles. The autocrats in Japan will find the liberals challenging them to maintain Japan as a solvent institution when all the world rises in its wrath against Japan. The "war party" and militarists in Japan will see themselves quarantined by the other nations of the world. For the first time in world history, the United States, Great Britain and France stand together as the principal exponents of the doctrine of moral force. The Kellogg-Briand treaty at last has its real test, and if the gesture of today succeeds it may profoundly affect the peace of the whole world in the future, insuring a stabilization which has not hitherto been possible.

The far-reaching effects of a world concert for peace cannot be overestimated. Temporarily they might be a cessation of trade resulting from armament making but, in the long run, such an impetus might be given to world trade in peace-time articles as to usher in an era of unparalleled prosperity.

America needs world trade. If the trade inside the United States is to be rationed and a self-containment policy is to be followed, then regimentation is inevitable and this means ultimate restriction of human liberty. But increased trade internationally in a peaceful world means increased volume of transactions for the people of the United States, and that means increased employment.

Policy of Hull

The President now is following out the policy preached by his secretary of state, Cordell Hull, who has been denouncing economic nationalism in his speeches. Up to now, it has not been known how much Mr. Roosevelt was prepared to back up Mr. Hull's utterances. The President's course in the last 24 hours shows that he recognizes the importance of a world economy as essential to American prosperity. It is a significant trend. It may influence domestic policy, too, for, as world trade increases, the need for restrictive policies of an emergency character within our borders will gradually disappear.

Mr. Roosevelt has taken the only course he could take—the course that is forced on him by

Dinner Stories

The two policemen sat in their radio car and listened to the announcer's tense command.

"Calling Car 13. Calling Car 13. Go to 19 Louis Benito Boulevard. A man is fighting with his wife. Take away the shoe he's hitting her with."

"Gosh!" murmured the first cop. "That's awful!"

"What?" asked his partner. "A man hitting his wife with a shoe?"

"Naw," snorted the first buttercoat. "The announcer ended a sentence with a preposition." — Mark Hellinger in New York Mirror.

Must Stay in Bounds

Justice Black's Proved Ability As Inquisitor Will Be of Little Value in Supreme Court.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The brilliant, biting style of examination of witnesses that made Hugo Black, the senator, famous and feared, probably will find little outlet in the supreme court.

Even before the klan issue arose, veteran hands around the court predicted that the elder justices would make short work of any efforts by the vigorous ex-senator to tangle attorneys in their own tales.

Black was relentless in examining recalcitrant witnesses before senate committees. Corporation executives who had survived hours of cross-examination in court with superb calm were reduced to wild-eyed bewilderment under the fire of Senator Black and his colleagues on the lobby investigating committee.

In court, witnesses are protected by their counsel and by certain rules of decorum. But in a senate committee all bars are down and the witness is at the mercy of senators who act as judge, prosecuting attorney and jury. They make their own rules of procedure as they go and show little mercy when in pursuit of evidence to support the legislation for which they are drumming.

His Style Cramped.

It was in that field, and in his earlier experience as police judge and prosecuting attorney, that Black learned the art that made him the most savage examiner since the late Senator Walsh of Montana who conducted the Teapot Dome investigation.

Yet when the justice begins his work on the court, his field for examination will be hemmed in on a dozen fronts. First off, he won't be examining witnesses. He will be examining skilled attorneys. He will not be searching witnesses for facts, but will be questioning attorneys about points of law. For in the supreme court there is little digging out of bare facts. Facts of the case all must have been determined in the lower courts. The supreme court, save in rare instances, deals only with how the law applies to the facts.

It is true that attorneys are occasionally subjected to grueling examination by members of the court. But often a member of the court will come to the rescue of an attorney being picked to bits by another member.

Court Discipline.

Justice Brandeis delights in pulling colleagued attorneys out of the claws of some of the conservative members of the court. If he feels that an attorney is being led into an unfair position through questioning by one of the justices, he will say unhesitatingly:

"If I were counsel, I should not answer that question."

Again, a justice may baffle an attorney with a demand for a citation of cases to support some obscure point. Justice Stone, Butler and others, liberals and conservatives, alike, may cut in to suggest:

"Does the attorney recall the case of Anderson vs The United States in which it was held—so and so."

Or one justice may take a more direct course by shooting the answer straight back at the justice who asked the question.

Now Black comes to the court skilled as an examiner after facts. But even his best friends would not say he is so quick on the trigger in law as his veteran colleagues. And court observers suspect the elderly justices will be laying for him if he seems to get out of bounds.

Words of the Wise

The sense of honor is of so fine and delicate a nature that it is only to be met with in minds which are naturally noble, or in such as have been cultivated by good examples, or a refined education.—Addison.

Whatever guilt is perpetrated by some evil prompting is grievous to the author of the crime. This is the first punishment of guilt that no one who is guilty is acquitted at the judgment seat of his own conscience.—Juvenal.

"Little Fellows" Going

Germany's "Small Capitalists" Fail To Get Promised Relief; Many Quitting, Taking Jobs.

This is the second of two articles on the fate of the small business man in the major fascist countries.

BY WADE WERGESON
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN, Oct. 7 — Germany's thousands of "small capitalists," the little fellows to whom Hitler promised to bring relief when he took power, are dwindling as a class. And dwindling rather rapidly.

The big capitalist has no bed of roses in Germany, but those little ones, who never had considered themselves as capitalists at all, are finding it harder still. Many of them are giving up business to take jobs.

Too Many Tradesmen

One of the reasons for the distress among small capitalists, of course, is the fact that there have been too many of them in Germany ever since inflation years.

In the days when the purchasing value of the mark dropped like a falling elevator cage, there were people who actually bought grocery stores just to be sure of their own food supply.

The revival of trade after stabilization of the mark in 1924 turned out to be only a breathing spell preceding the great economic depression. With more than 6,000,000 workers jobless, thousands of people decided that rather than lose up their small savings while looking for that non-existent swanky job, they would sink everything in small shops.

When Hitler Arrived

When Hitler came to power most of them were just getting along, or on the verge of bankruptcy. But the Nazis quickly took measures against the small tradesman's chief nightmare—the chain stores.

But it soon developed that many chains were so deeply in debt that the banks owned them. And the financial crisis already had made the government the real owner of the banks.

So pressure against the chains has been relaxed.

When the Four Year Plan came, with its drive to eliminate wasteful distribution and throttle imports of raw materials and merchandise, the plight of the small tradesman became even more embarrassing. Control of merchandising to eliminate waste always is easier through big concerns.

Shortage Of Labor

On top of all this came the shortage of labor — especially skilled labor. What used to be an army of 6,000,000 unemployed has dwindled to a scant half million. The shortage of harvest hands this fall was so great that soldiers and sailors—not to mention volunteer stormtroopers and students—were sent into the fields. In some cases the government even permitted the import of foreign laborers.

It was to the government's advantage to encourage small "capitalists" to abandon their little shops and their independence in return for that steady job in a factory which only a few years ago so many of them sought in vain. And many of them are glad of the chance.

In New York

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—No trade or craft dies out wholly. The human race has its instinct for keeping alive skill or knowledge however weird. Manhattan for example, has one shop that does nothing but reproduce and repair medieval armor. Also there are six makers and peruke factories.

Out on Long Island is a shop that makes swords, hand forged and chased, and there are times when it works night and day. In New Jersey five or six men make a living as fletchers, or arrow makers. Also the ancient art of falconry still exists hereabouts.

The gentlemen of the fancy fly their hawks at Brewster, N. Y. every now and then, the birds properly hooded and belled, riding on the gloved wrist. The only real monopoly I know is that of an old man in the south of England who has a quarry in which he digs flints.

He sells them to a tribe of Arabs in the Sahara who, after four centuries of improvements in warfare, still won't use anything but the old flint-lock muskets. They cling to the discarded reasoning that anything good enough for their ancestors is good enough for them.

Massive-headed, burly John L. Lewis is frequently a stroller in the late afternoon after parade when in town. Whenever he meets Senator John F. Davis they chatter awhile in Welsh just to keep in practice. Another who talks the Welsh language is the Ambassador to Russia, Joseph Davies, whose mother was a famous Welsh preacher, known as Rachel O'Fon or Rachel of Anglesea, gifted with poetic fire and oratory.

A friend on East End Avenue has a Japanese cook who, being a Buddhist, takes genuine to food before he cooks it, whether a leg of lamb or a bowl of shrimps. This way he assuages the spirits of the once frolicsome lot of sedate shrimps. After a dinner a notch under par the other evening, my friend apologized to guests by saying: "Somehow I don't think Kado was on speaking terms with the food tonight." Incidentally, Japanese are steady patrons of the better Chinese restaurants, for they regard the cuisine as classical, just as we do the French. Art is always art, no matter how badly governments get along with each other.

Three of the town's biggest book shops recently had window displays of Kipling's work. He is greater than ever. Queen Mary is heading a $1,250,000 fund to raise a memorial to Kipling, who while alive was never honored with knighthood or the Poet Laureateship. Some aver because of reference to the 'Widow of Windsor.' Others think because of certain biting and Elizabethian poems to be found only among private collectors.

And English novelists used to come here on a flying lecture trips, but now elect to stay and live. Aldous Huxley and J. B. Priestly, for example, who like Somerset Maugham and the late John Galsworthy, prefer the southwest. Huxley went to stay at Frieda Lawrence's ranch near Taos, New Mexico, but, finding it had no bath, hurriedly left for Denver, where he sojourns impatiently until Frieda has a bath installed on her place.

Musing: So far as I can discover, the only butterflies in New York are found in Washington Square and they rarely wander out of the peaceful zone. In Washington Square the buses going up and down with mathematical precision, are remindful of the late Stella Benson's thought that the busses are the up-and-down weights on the clock of Manhattan, keeping the old town eternally wound up.

The dreariest purlieu of New York is still Brooklyn's Red Hook district, but it's not as tough as it used to be. Once there were dock workers, who upended newsboys to shake nickels out of their pants for a scuttle of beer. It was in Red Hook that some one coined the simile: So tough he bought himself a second hand electric chair to relax in.

Go To Grass

"AND HE gave it for his opinion, that whether could make two ears of corn or two blades of grass, to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together."—Jonathan Swift's Voyage to Brobdingnag.

Chances are you've not though much about grass lately. Unless it's your bad fortune to have a lawn which refuses to look like a lawn without endless coaxing, grass doesn't seem important. As a reminder, therefore, of how important grass is, the following two paragraphs from an article written by Philip Rose, editor of The Country Gentleman, are worth reading. Mr. Rose was replying to a query as to why his magazine gives so much space to articles about grass. He wrote:

"The prophet Isaiah summed up the case for grass in these words: 'All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field.'

"The place of grass in human affairs has been known since earliest times. Every man who lives in the country knows that when grass fails all else fails. None but a man city born or one who has lived long among skyscrapers can acquire such a distorted view of life as to wonder about the importance of grass.

"It was drouth and the plowing up of the native grasses that created the dust bowl that sent storms swirling across the continent. It caused so much misery throughout the west. Lack of grass during the past few years in the west is the reason why pork and beef and lamb chops cost so much today. I thought everybody knew that. I thought everybody knew that grass is the final answer to nearly all of our soil conservation problems; but perhaps I was a little too optimistic."

Today in Ohio History

An early Ohio historian records that he frequently spent a great part of his Sunday roaming through the cemetery at whatever place he happened to be because that was about the only place he could roam and remain in respect of the best citizens.

He frequently discovered facts of great importance on grave stones and sometimes gave unusual epitaphs a place in his "story." Here is an example:

"Prince Howland, Jr. died October [illegible] aged 24 years."

"Death, bungling archer,
Lets his arrow fly,
Misses old age,
And lo a youth must die."

OPPORTUNITY.

Some of his enemies say Justice Hugo Black is not much of a constitutional lawyer, but perhaps he isn't too old to learn—and he certainly will be in a good place to pick it up rapidly.—Kansas City Star.

LAWRENCE WRITES ON CAPITAL SITUATION

the need for an increasing volume of business transactions within our rates so as to increase employment and increase wages, something that can only happen if the world goes in the direction of peace instead of war.

America's influence on the side of peace was never in our history exerted more opportunely in an international situation or more dramatically. The President has wisely assumed a leadership which, if sincerely supported by Britain and France, may change the whole face of events in a world that has for nearly a decade now been witnessing a breakup of democracies and an extension of human suffering. The constructive step for peace—respect for a treaty negotiated, incidentally, by a Republican administration—shows that on this issue there is no partisanship but an Americanism, gallant and challenging, an Americanism of which all of us can be proud.

UNDONE BY DOCTORS

In the vicinity of Canton there were several swampy tracts which made an excellent habitat for the mosquito, which in turn caused disease that the doctors were called upon to combat. When a proposal to construct a canal through Canton was under consideration, the medical profession stood in a bloc of opposition. Physicians claimed a canal would merely extend the scope of the mosquito's activities.

The canal was constructed through Massillon, eight miles to the west, with the result that the swamp lands in that vicinity were drained and the mosquito nuisance was abated. For the next quarter-century Canton saw her neighbor grow as a commercial center.

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Believed by Dicky's Plan for Edith's Letter.

DICKY'S QUESTION made me sit up tensely. It was uncanny the way he had put his finger upon the inexplicable omission of a warning to keep the contents of Edith Fairfax's letter secret from anybody save Dicky.

I was upon the horns of a dilemma. If I told him the truth, that Edith had mentioned no other name than his in her demand for secrecy, he might ask me next if I had told Lillian of the letter.

But that was something I did not wish him to know. Lillian had extracted Edith's omission from me as with the proverbial corkscrew. And, in her usual high-handed fashion where my welfare is concerned, she had taken possession of the letter, forbidden me to send to Edith the telegraphed answer she had so insolently demanded, and had announced her intention of dealing with the letter and its author in such fashion as to relieve me of all worry concerning it.

I was afraid that Dicky might justly resent my turning over the letter to Lillian when I had refused to let him see it. But there was no way out for me now. I felt compelled to answer his question. But I found my mouth suddenly dry when I spoke.

"No," I faltered. "She said nothing of anyone save you."

Suggests Lillian

"Then what's the matter with turning the whole mess over to old Lil? She's always had Ede's number, and she ought to be able to handle your end of it. I'll promise not to ask Lil a thing about the letter, or what she's doing. But, of course"—this with a wide grin—"I'll always have a receptive ear if she wishes to drop any hint to me of what's up."

If the heavens had opened and dropped manna upon me, when starving, I could not have been more pleased and grateful. I need not tell Dicky that I already had done the thing he was asking me to do, but I could relieve his anxiety by promising to do it in the future.

"Lillian certainly could deal with the situation far better than I could," I said, purposely making my voice hesitant.

"Then why not let her?" he said eagerly.

I waited for a second, then said steadily:

"After all, I'm under no particular obligation to Edith, and Lillian can attend to the things she asks better than I can. I think I'll take your advice, and turn the whole matter, letter and all, over to Lillian."

"Hallelujah!" he ejaculated. "I really didn't dare to hope you'd be so tractable. Sure you won't stretch the conscience a little more and let me see the letter before you turn it over to Lil?"

"Please don't ask me that," I pleaded, "for I cannot show you that letter now. There's something in it which makes it impossible for me to show it until I find out the truth of something. Some day I may show it to you, for, of course, I have made no promise to Edith one way or another. If I find out a certain conjecture of mine is correct, I shall bring the letter to you at once."

"Well, nobody can't speak fairer nor that," he quoted, laughing. "I have your promise, mind, to turn Ede's letter and all dealings with her over to Lil. I don't want you going near Ede at all. She's off her nut, I do believe—anyway, enough to try to humiliate you in any way she can. And I've simply got to get rid of that magazine. It's a perfectly impossible situation however you look at it. Too bad, too, for it's picking up and paying its way."

"Is the woman you took on in Edith's place any good at the work?" I asked.

It was an idle question, but angrily, "Did Ede say anything about her in that letter?"

TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET
Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Dancing and Rolling Exercises.
If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.
There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.
All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" sets in a furnace. Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out in this way.
Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same method used by doctors. So don't waste your time and money trying to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

THE CHARACTERS

Nina, a nice girl with flaxen hair, meets a young man at a party.

Irvin, drives her home, completes the conquest the party and proves to be an irresistible salesman. He has copper hair and a dog named Patton.

Honey, Nina's plump, youthful mother, brings home a new husband.

Richard, Nina's stepfather, is charming, poised, dark-haired, well-mannered and Honey's junior by 10 years.

Geraldine, Nina's closest friend.

"Stuck Close To Her"

TONIGHT Nina did not notice her beautiful room, or drink in it appreciatively, as she usually did. She drew her things off the bed, cold-creamed her face, brushed her teeth and hair and opened the windows, in a kind of daze, and the minute she was in bed, she started to cry, softly.

"Oh, daddy," she murmured into her pillows and as the wintry dawn crept in, she was a little girl again, having her first serious talk with her father, about Honey.

"How it would have been so easy for her to remember, daddy! I said 'no,' so plainly, and she got green...and now I'll have to wait a whole week for another order, and your present won't be done for Christmas! I do think she might have..."

"Now, listen, youngster," she could absolutely see her tall thin father, with his sensitive mouth and kind, humorous eyes. "There are two kinds of people in this world: the serious, sensible kind, like Annie, who mend your clothes and look after you, and never forget things...and then there are people like your mother, who make all the fun and gaiety in the world. Now you couldn't expect Annie to make you scream with laughter, and think up wonderful new kinds of games, and have all the kids crazy about her, could you?...No. Well then, you mustn't expect your mother, who brings you so much of another kind of happiness, to be like Annie, as well. That's sensible, isn't it?"

Nina had been able to see that it was. After that she had thought of Honey as having a very special sort of gift—as indeed she had—and had understood her much better.

Once or twice she had come upon her father unexpectedly, with an inexpressibly sad look in his brown eyes, and she had wondered if Honey's special gift brought him as much happiness as it did others; but she had been too young to think very much about it. It was not until she was 18 and daddy had another little private talk with her, that she understood better.

It had been in the library—daddy's room then—with rows of shabby musty books and dark green leather chairs and sofa.

When he had called her in for that second talk about Honey, they had all known of his heart trouble—that he might go, suddenly, at any time.

He said: "I want to tell you some things, Nina dear; that I wouldn't be telling you if I were a well man. I'll plunge in." He finished. "You may, or may not have noticed that your mother has never been—in love with me. That's very different, you know, child, from caring for someone. Your mother cares for me a lot. As a young girl she was engaged to a man, and something went wrong...I practically browbeat her into marrying me."

Nina had interrupted. "Oh, daddy, darling, you couldn't browbeat anyone!"

"Well I did, just the same, youngster; and I don't feel badly about it because we have you as a result, and we've been awfully happy together. Of course I should have let her go in a minute if she had ever wanted to....ever met anyone else. But the point of all this is that your mother is still a child, almost. You're not old enough to know it yourself yet, but a normal passion, a love that is satisfied, matures a person—completes them; and Honey has never had that....All her sudden enthusiasms....her instability....her darling crazy fads, are simply because she has never been—crazy enough about me. Can you grasp all this, Nina dear?....Well, now, a person like that needs a lot of looking after, and on the best authority, I'm not going to be here much longer to do it."

Nina had marveled at his being able to speak of his death so lightly. Her own throat had closed up on her till she had had to make a little choking sound to breathe.

"You've had a grand childhood, haven't you? And I want you to forget all this, for now, and go on being just as young and silly as you like. But when I'm gone,

Nina brushed her hair in a sort of daze.

Nina," he was very solemn, "when I'm gone, you've got to grow up.....and speedily. Will you promise me, child?"

"I do promise, daddy, I do."

"And another thing, I don't want any loyalty to me, on your part, to make you unhappy if your mother should marry again. I want her to...if he's the right man. She would turn into an entirely different person if she really fell in love, deeply...and if I'm anywhere up high enough to get a good view of her, I shall be entirely happy about it. But if he isn't the right man (and here's where you've got to be grown up and keep an eye on her)...she'll go to pieces, you know that. Stick close to her, youngster, you've got a good head on your shoulders. I'll be depending on you..."

Nina remembered all this, as she lay, now, between her peach crepe de Chine sheets.

Her father had been depending on her, and she had always done her best...till now, when it was too late to do anything at all, only hope.

"Oh, daddy, darling..." she murmured again, and fell asleep, because after all, she was young and healthy, and it was nearly 6 a. m.

At 11, she went down to breakfast.

Honey had never, never had breakfast with her first husband, so Nina had always made the effort: and now—some peculiar leftover—she always felt disloyal if she stayed in bed. Sometimes after a late night, particularly in her debutante winter, she had straggled in more asleep than awake, merely kissed him, gulped down a glass of tomato juice and returned to bed...but it had been comradely, and her father had never been able to break her of the habit.

This morning as usual, these last two years, the dining-room was deserted.

When she stepped on the bell, Bridget, the waitress, appeared and said: "Good morning."

Richard wins Bridget, tomorrow, and turns to Nina.
